Traffic Jam Looms After Chester Bridge Closing

A sizeable traffic problem is expected to develop starting Wednesday in the Newell Bridge area as motorists who have ordinarily utilized the Chester Bridge switch to new travel routes.

The 73-year-old Chester span will be closed at 11 a.m. tomorrow by the Ohio Department of Highways as a result of an engineer report that the safety factor of the bridge is now uncertain.

Continuing corrosion of the cables is cited for the closing of the span.

Meanwhile, officials of the privately owned Newell Bridge are bracing for a heavy increase in the use of the bridge which will be the only river crossing between Shippingport and Steubenville.

—:—

EAST LIVERPOOL and area residents who work at West Virginia potteries and other jobs and Chester and Newell district men and women employed in East Liverpool or at Midland will be compelled to travel the Newell span.

This will involve workers at Homer Laughlin China Co., Ohio Brass Co., Globe Brick Co. all of the Newell area, along with employes of Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. and Harker Pottery Co. at Chester. Waterford Park customers and employes are also involved.

It is estimated some 4,000 vehicles daily have been crossing the Newell span, and this volume is expected to double after Wednesday.

Glenn Hall, Newell Bridge Co. official, said it is expected two men will be kept on duty at the toll booth during the day. Until this week, the booth was manned by one coin taker with an extra man put on for peak hours.

THERE IS a 10-ton limit placed on the Newell Bridge which was erected in 1904. The span is inspected periodically by the Modjeski & Masters engineering firm of Harrisburg, Pa., the same firm which has recommended the closing of the Chester span.

Levi Kimble, director of Division 11 of the Ohio Department of Highways, said a report is expected next week from Glaus, Pyle and Schomer of Youngstown, consulting engineers, concerning the updating of the proposed Freeway extension from Monroe St. to Mulberry St.

The freeway plans are needed before recommendations can be completed for a site for a new bridge. Wilbur Smith Associates of Hartford, Conn., have completed a feasibility report for the West Virginia Road Commission concerning a new bridge. Three sites have been proposed, but approval depends in large part on the Ohio Department of Highways and East Liverpool officials for approval of the Ohio approaches.

MAYOR GEORGE E. Willshaw said the city expects the local traffic congestion will center on E. and W. 5th and 6th Sts., which give access to the Newell Bridge. He indicated authorities will attempt to cope with bottlenecks as they develop.

"This will involve hundreds of East Liverpool potters who formerly used the Chester Bridge to drive to their jobs in West Virginia," the mayor said. "And it will affect many Chester and Newell residents employed in Ohio and Pennsylvania—particularly at the mills in Midland."

In the past, a great deal of the Chester - Midland traffic avoided the downtown section of East Liverpool by using a bypass along College or Walnut Sts. to E. 4th St. and then to the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." Much of this traffic now will be forced to travel through the downtown area.

Chester Council Asks Action On New Bridge

Chester officials today were to advise West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore that closing of the Chester Bridge will place the city "in a state of emergency."

Council Monday night authorized a letter to the governor requesting immediate action leading to construction of a new span.

Mayor Harold Ash and Councilmen also urged residents to write the governor and their legislators. Without the bridge, Councilmen declared, "Chester will be a dead town. The very life of the community depends upon speedy action by the state."

Phone Parley Slated On Closing Of Bridge

COLUMBUS — Ohio highway officials will talk by telephone with West Virginia Road Commission authorities Wednesday concerning the closing of the Chester Bridge.

Gov. James Rhodes, highways director P. E. Masheter and State Sen. Douglas Applegate of Steubenville conferred this morning about the bridge.

In the short meeting, discussion was held on the possibility of extending the powers of the Ohio Bridge Commission to construct bridges. At present, the authority of the Commission is restricted.

The mayor said he did not know of the bridge-closing order until Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey was informed by telephone late yesterday morning by the Ohio Highway Department.

"WE HAD heard from the Division 11 office in New Philadelphia recently that a new inspection was planned, but there was no indication the bridge would be closed," he said.

He pointed out the Youngstown engineering firm originally was scheduled to file its updated report on the Freeway in early April, but received a month's extension. The report is due now by the end of May.

"I hope Ohio and West Virginia authorities will get together and establish lines of communication so we will know

Ohio Senate OKs 3 Election Bills, Handed To House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate has adopted and sent to the House three election bills in an attempt to comply with recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

The legislature must act this session since the Supreme Court last October htld that Ohio's election laws for third parties and independent candidates were unnecessarily harsh and repressive. The high court, in turn, voided parts of them.

After considerable debate Monday night, two bills were adopted by 28 to 3 votes, despite warnings that they could not meet court tests.

One requires independent candidates to gather signatures equal to 4 per cent of the vote in the last gubernatorial election. This would equal about candidate running for statewide office in 1970.

It also requires independent and party candidates to file at the same time. This is to keep losers in party primaries from running as independent candidates.

The second bill requires a new party to gather signatures equal to 7 per cent of the gubernatorial vote cast to initially put its candidate on the ballot.

It also requires it to poll 7 per cent of the vote at the next election tostay on the ballot. In 1970, a new party would need about 280,000 valid signatures.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, opposed the bills, saying the requirements "were still too stringent."

"They will not pass the U.S. Supreme Court test," Mottl said.

Senators, both Republican and Democrat, admitted their main objective was to pass bills to keep the two major parties in power.

"I don't know if any of these bills will be approved by the Supreme Court," said Sen. William B. Nye, D-28 Akron. "But I feel it's valid to preserve the two-party system in Ohio."

Nixon Asks Draft Lottery

First Call Sought For Youths 19

Requests Authority From Congress To Implement Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to set up a random, lottery system for the military draft.

Nixon recommended that 19-year-olds be subject to the first call but that they remain vulnerable to the draft for only one year rather than seven as under the existing system.

"It is my conviction," Nixon said in a message to Congress, "that the disruptive impact of the military draft on individual lives should be minimized as much as possible, consistent with the national security. For this reason I am today asking the Congress for authority to implement important draft reforms."

The President repeated his stand that ideally there should be an all-volunteer armed force for the nation. He said he continued to believe that this ideal can be reached under more stable world conditions.

He added: "Under present conditions, however, some kind of draft will be needed for the immediate future. As long as that is the case, we must do everything we can to limit the disruption caused by the system and to make it as fair as possible."

The chief executive offered a six-point recommendation, topped by changing from an oldest-first to a youngest-first order of call so a young man would become less rather than more vulnerable to selection as he grows older.

The random system—a lottery—would be applied to all those who are vulnerable during a given year rather than to those whose birthdays fall at certain times of the year or month.

A young man normally would enter the stage of maximum vulnerability during his 19th year and leave it during his 20th year.

Undergraduate students would continue to be deferred and their year of maximum vulnerability would begin with the expiration of the deferment.

Graduate students would be allowed to complete the full academic year during which they were ordered up for induction, rather than just one term.

The National Security Council and the Selective Service director are being directed to review the whole policy of deferments and exemptions and give the President their findings and recommendations.

Reds Blast Allied Sites From DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops made their heaviest coordinated rocket and mortar attacks from inside the demilitarized zone since American planes quit bombing North Vietnam last Nov. 1, military spokesmen reported today.

U.S. headquarters said 11 positions in the southern half of the DMZ fired more than 45 rounds of rockets and mortars Monday into allied positions stretching halfway along the 40-mile zone. But there were no reported allied casualties since the U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops were well dug in.

Marine artillery and the big guns of the U.S. heavy cruiser St. Paul in Tonkin Gulf blasted the enemy gun positions. All of the guns were silenced and forward observers reported 10 secondary explosions, indicating direct hits on ammunition stores, U.S. headquarters said.

U.S. headquarters keeps a close watch on the DMZ, since American officials say North Vietnam agreed to keep it free of military action in return for the bombing halt. Hanoi denies this, saying the bombing halt was unconditional.

Farther south along the Laotian border near the A Shau Valley, other North Vietnamese troops made a heavy attack on American paratroopers trying to choke off infiltration routes into South Vietnam. Twenty American paratroopers were killed, 65 were wounded, and their artillery base sustained "light to moderate" damage, U.S. headquarters said. Twenty North Vietnamese troops were reported killed.

City's Program Held Inadequate

State Assumes Inspection Of Wellsville Restaurants

Asserting that the job had not been done adequately by the city's Health Department, the Ohio Health Department Monday night officially assumed the responsibility of making regular sanitary inspections in Wellsville's 42 restaurants and other food service operations.

John Frazier, chief of the food protection division of the state department at Columbus, said it was the first time in history the board has taken such action in an Ohio subdivision.

The state will continue with the inspections in Wellsville until it has "assurance from the community that it wants the program returned and has a plan for adequate inspections," Frazier said.

The state will reimburse itself for the service by billing the City of Wellsville, Frazier said. He pointed out the Ohio Revised Code contains a provision that allows the state to collect from a local community an amount equal to the sum the city has received in sale of food service operation licenses or permits. In Wellsville's case, this probably would amount to $600 or $700, he added.

Frazier made the announcement of the state inspection program during a meeting Monday night at Wellsville High School. All food service operators were

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Next time the fire department of suburban Oakland Park lights a fire it will let the public know.

But the boys back at headquarters got the most practice. They answered more than 100 phone calls reporting a large fire.

3 Astronauts Get Exam For Moon Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 10 astronauts undergo their final major physical examinations today as the launch date nears for their ring-around-the-moon flight.

Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdrs. John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan planned several hours with the doctors. The exam determines whether they are healthy for their difficult eight - day moon journey starting Sunday and provides heart rate, respiration and other date for in-flight and post-flight comparison.

Stafford, Young and Cernan hope to avoid the sickness that plagued all three previous Apollo crews.

Colds and flu bothered both the Apollo 7 and 8 teams in flight, and colds forced a three-day postponement of the Apollo 9 launching earlier this year.

The illnesses generally were blamed on a heavy work schedule in the final weeks of preparation for launching. To avoid this, Stafford, Young and Cernan completed most of their stringent training early and have eased up in recent days.

"We're not going to get in a rundown condition where we're more susceptible to illness," said Stafford, the commander.

The launch team Monday started the lengthy countdown which aims for a 12:49 p.m. EDT blastoff of the Saturn 5 rocket Sunday.

After a three-day quarter-million-mile trip across trackless space, the astronauts are to orbit the moon at an altitude of 69 miles.

New York Seminary Sit-In Ends

100 At Marietta College Continuing Hunger Strike

By The Associated Press

An integrated group of students at Union Theological Seminary in New York held a day-long sit-in to support black militants' demands for $500 million in reparations for racial injustice, while more than 100 students at Marietta College in Ohio entered the fourth day of a hunger strike.

About 100 seminarians moved out of Union's administration building after 23 hours, when school officials agreed to convene a meeting of the board of directors Thursday to hear student demands.

The students for the Protestant ministry seek $100,000 from the seminary and $1 million to be raised privately by the directors for the reparations campaign against religious institutions, led by the National Black Economic Development Conference.

Union has about 600 students, 16 of them black.

The students moved to the chapel and pledged to remain there until their demands were met.

In Marietta, about 120 students continued to fast over the expulsion of student body president Earl Maimam for using "inflammatory language."

Marietta has about 1,800 students.

At the City College of New York, Dr. Joseph J. Copeland ended his first day as president of the 20,000-student school with a promise to try and re-open negotiations with black and Puerto Rican students who seek a separate school of black studies and enrollment of more minority group students.

Earlier, Copeland promised to keep police on campus as long as necessary to maintain law and order. The Faculty Senate asked him to remove police and cancel formal classes for the rest of the week to permit discussion of the demands. Copeland agreed to the second request.

At other campuses:

Jefferson City, Mo.—Student demonstrators left the Student Union at Lincoln University, which they had held since Friday, when a state restraining order was read to them over a loudspeaker.

About 75 students of the 2,000 were sitting-in to seek student power.

Newton, Mass.—About 75 students took over the administration building at Newton Andover Theological Seminary to seek more black representation on the school's board of trustees and enrollment of more blacks. Many students boycotted classes to back the protest.

Boston—About 1,500 students at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst chipped in $1 each for ads in two newspapers here, calling on the legislature to restore educational cuts in the 1970 budget.

The state will reimburse itself for the service by billing the City of Wellsville, Frazier said. He pointed out the Ohio Revised Code contains a provision that allows the state to collect from a local community an amount equal to the sum the city has received in sale of food service operation licenses or permits. In Wellsville's case, this probably would amount to $600 or $700, he added.

Frazier made the announcement of the state inspection program during a meeting Monday night at Wellsville High School. All food service operators were

Practice NOT Perfect

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Next time the fire department of suburban Oakland Park lights a fire it will let the public know.

Firemen put a torch to Porky's, an abandoned nightclub, Monday to get some practice fighting a large blaze.

But the boys back at headquarters got the most practice. They answered more than 100 phone calls reporting a large fire.

Warming Trend Due For Tri-State Area

A warming trend is under way.

The forecast calls for fair and not so cool tonight, with the low in the 40s, and for partly cloudy and warmer Wednesday, with a chance of showers.

Tomorrow's high will be in the upper 60s.

Loud Debate Due On Volpe Transit Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The blueprint for a multibillion dollar attack on mass transit problems Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe is expected to send to the White House in two weeks is certain to stir strong debate within the adminisration.

One issue will involve the financing Volpe has indicated he will use for the program. Another problem could arise because the plan is expected to lack specific proposals for action.

But, Volpe says, "I'm a fighter and I expect to see this through.

Volpe admits his researchers have not been able to come up with a cheap, practical way to move masses of people into, out of and around the nation's cities.

But a Volpe aide says this doesn't mean there is any doubt about the need for money.

"You've got to have the money should the answer be found," an aide said. "You've got to be ready to go with this situation because the problem becomes more severe each and every day. "It should have been gappled with 110 years ago."

The financing is expected to involve a trust fund concept used in the federal highway construction program and advocated by Volpe in a recently proposed airport construction bill.

Opposition to this financing by some administration economists has resulted in the temporary halt to the airport bill, which the White House returned to Volpe for further study.

Although the trust fund approach has proved highly successful in building highways, some government economists oppose extending it to other areas because it commits funds in advance, making them immune to budget cutters.

"If you don't like a trust fund, then you suggest an alternative that will get the job done," Volpe says he has told opponents of the concept.

The new administration's position on mass transit has been somewhat unclear although President Nixon made solving congestion in the cities one of 10 major goals.

The Johnson administration gave mass transit No. 1 priority among transportation problems and Volpe vehemently denies the Republicans have downgraded it, although the first two bills pushed out of his department were aviation measures.

The secretary mentioned the billion dollar figure for mass transit for the first time at a New York news conference Friday, saying the program being worked on would grow to "about $1 billion in two or three years." Volpe also said the program ultimately would amount to a billion dollars a year.

He decided to say how much money would be sought initially and when, but presumably nothing would be requested until fiscal 1971

Wrestling In Red

Basketball Lists Profit Of $9,022

A net profit of $9,022 for the 1968-69 basketball season and a net loss of $3,710 for the wrestling season was reported during Monday night's meeting of the East Liverpool High School Athletic Association.

Joe Smith, treasurer, pointed out that $2,300 of the wrestling expenditure was for uniforms—an expenditure not required each season.

The basketball report showed an income from all sources of $20,191, including about $4,000 in tournament bonuses, and expenditures of $11,169. The figures cover the period from June 1, 1968, to May 1, 1969.

The wrestling report, from Oct. 1, 1968 to May 1, 1969, shows income of $209 and expenditures of $3,919.

IN OTHER business, the board approved the 1969-70 high school basketball budget of $993 as submitted by Clinton McConnell, head coach. Members pointed out the figure may be low and that other expenditures could be approved later in the year.

Because of a variance in price listings for the same equipment, the board deferred action on the junior high budgets and requested the coaches from East Junior and Westgate to coordinate their budgets and resubmit them at the June meeting.

Smith reported a $18,162 balance in the treasury — $14,808 in the savings accounts and $3,354 in the checking account.

A discussion was held on the track and football field, the baseball field and the possibility of using the field behind the North Elementary building for football practice in August.

The board voted to purchase a new control box for the football scoreboard at Patterson Field and agreed to check costs of replacing the press box, which was termed dangerous.

Thomas Rodfong was appointed to obtain cost figures for presentation at the next meeting.

TWO SESSIONS have been set up — Aug. 20 and 27 — for a review of changes from NCAA rules to Ohio Athletic Association rules during the coming football season.

Don Hancock said films will be shown, with some 50 persons — including coaching staffs and officials — to be invited for the briefing sessions.

After a general discussion, board members decided to reseed Patterson Field, with resodding next year if necessary.

The expense of improving the track facilities and the press box motivated the action.

Alton Dobson, high school principal and chairman of the athletic board, read a letter relative to House Bill 369 which would set up a five - member statewide student activity review board with final authority over all extra-curricular activities in a school.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association is opposing the measure and is urging its member groups to sign petitions against passage.

The board voted to oppose the legislation and Dobson was appointed to circulate the petitions for signatures.

The next board meeting will be at the high school June 9.

Dedication Held For Bible Holder

A Bible holder for the communion table of the sanctuary was dedicated Sunday morning during worship at the First Baptist Church on W. 5th St.

It was presented by Mrs. Georgia Wood of Los Alamos, N. M., a former resident, in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bowman.

Mrs. Bowman's mother, Mrs. Rebecca Robinson, was one of the five persons who helped launch the church here in 1899.

Mothers in the congregation were recognized and presented flowers, including Mrs. Beth Wagoner, oldest; Mrs. Virginia Bettridge, youngest; Mrs. Peg Bangor, most children present, with three generations; Mrs. Ethel Blatchford, Mrs. Mae Littell, Mrs. Ada Bangor, Mrs. Phyliss Davis, Mrs. Grace Garver, Mrs. Bertha Woods, Mrs. Arzelia Green and Mrs. Wilda Boyce.

Expediting New Bridge Plans

Just seven months after engineers recommended one-way traffic be ordered on the weakened Chester Bridge—with closing of the span in 1970—the bridge has been closed to all traffic.

Just 14 months after engineers advised the Ohio Department of Highways the aging span should be replaced "as soon as possible," the bridge is being put out of commission because of the rapid deterioration of its cables.

The most unhappy motorist forced to detour to Newell or Shippingport cannot criticize the closing of the span based on the declining safety factor.

The report by the engineers following last month's inspection, listing parted wires in the cables, makes one shudder about what might happen if the bridge were kept in use. There is a strong possibility that had there not been the Silver Bridge disaster which spurred inspection of the Chester span, we might well have had such a collapse and heavy loss of life off our own shores.

Skeptics who seemingly were inconvinced about the bridge hazard must join the rest of us in facing up to the reality of a major transportation problem between our communities. The economic effects of losing truck travel across the Ohio River here were critical enough; now, the time, distance, congestion and other problems connected with re-routing auto travel will have a major effect upon our local economy.

Highway officials, who have indicated the various engineering surveys have been continuing apace and generally on schedule, admit off the record this new crisis should have the effect of "expediting" planning and preliminary work.

Optimistic predictions of a new bridge here for 1971 have obviously turned sour. Strangulation of industrial and commercial operations in our area is now at the crisis stage, and the economic potential of East Liverpool is placed in limbo by this isolation from main highway routing.

Officials of West Virginia and Ohio hopefully will re-evaluate this problem involving the industries, the taxpayers and the development of both states, and undertake some action which will bring results, as the original engineering report urged, "as soon as possible."

Some Concern About Nixon

Some concern is beginning to be expressed regarding President Nixon's decision-making.

It has been noted that he has publicly reversed himself on several occasions after having announced decisions. At other times he has drawn close to making a decision and then backed off.

The President, in his press conferences has performed very well and, in fact, has been impressive. He has seemed extermely knowledgeable on every subject brought up and has given the impression that he gathers his facts carefully, weighs them cautiously and then deliberately makes the best decision.

BUT THE POSITIVENESS evidenced in the press conference seems not to be so evident when it comes to actually implemenling those decisions. And this vacillation, as an indication of indecisiveness, is what concerns some observers of the Presdent's conduct in office.

Apparently the press was responsible for Mr. Nixon changing his mind about the appointment of Willie Mae Rogers as presidential consumer consultant. This resulted in Miss Rogers' resignation.

In another appointment case, Congress apparently caused the President to arrange for Peter Bove, newly appointed governor of the Virgin Islands, to withdraw — on grounds of poor health.

A third case, in which Mr. Nixon eliminated the name of Franklin Long from consideration for the post of director of the National Science Foundation only to do a complete about-face and offer the job to Mr. Long, received much more publicity.

It has been reported that the President, in a much more serious matter, was prevailed upon not to make a decision he was about to make -- namely to bomb selected targets in North Korea after an American reconnaissance plane was shot down off the Korean coast.

A decision to bomb Korea, once made and carried out, could not be reversed.

Individuals who are willing to admit that they have "goofed" in a decision or an action long have been extolled as being "big" persons. Admitting one is wrong hurts the pride but it can earn respect.

HOWEVER, IN THE CASE of the president of the United States, if the people are to have confidence in his leadership ability, he can afford to make few mistakes. They want him to be right — not wrong — when he makes a decision.

A reputation for vacillation could undermine the nation's confidence in him and give the nation's millions of queasy feeling every time he announces at a press conference that he soon will mak a decision on a matter of vital concern to the entire nation and perhaps the world.

SDS Be Wary Of Business

By Art Buchwald

The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) have urged their members to get their hair cut, shave off their beards and sideburns and infiltrate the business community this summer. The idea is to ferment revolution of the campus.

Art Buchwald

Some businessmen are fearful of the results of such an infiltration. But I think the SDS is taking a bigger chance than business. It's one thing to stick to your ideals on a campus with 50 or 60 other students giving you support, but it's another to go off all alone into the business world and keep from being corrupted.

Bearing in mind that most members of SDS are usually the brighter students, let's go to the Flipper Department Store where Barney Longstreet, an SDS leader, has managed to get a job as a trainee in the men's clothing department.

FOR A START, Barney has been sticking pictures of Che Guevara in the suits hanging on the racks — a small thing, but as Mao Tse-tung says, "A revolutionary must work in the pocket of most resistance."

Barney does this early in the morning. Since he is always the first one there, the men's clothing buyer is very impressed with him and one day announces that he is elevating Barney from his trainee position to full salesman.

This surprise appointment leaves Barney unsettled, as he wants to pursue the life of the lowliest employe to get the feel of what it is like to be expoilted by the capitalist system. Rather than reveal his true identity, Barney accepts the promotion.

HIS CHANCES of fermenting revolution among the employes are limited to lunch and smoking breaks, and when Barney tells the employes what a lousy deal they have at Flipper's, he attracts a large audience.

The vice president of personnel, who has no idea what Barney is talking to the other employes about, feels that if he can attract such large audiences he must have executive potential and, therefore, he makes him a floor manager at a healthy salary increase.

Stricken with fear that he is selling out, Barney hands in a list of reforms which he says the store must agree to before he takes the job. These include Flipper's Department Store getting involved in the community, donating part of its profits to the employes and setting up an Afro-American clothing boutique.

These demands are sent up to the president of Flipper's, and after reading them he says, "Why didn't we think of this first? I don't want Longstreet working as floor manager. He's too valuable to waste there. Bring him up to the executive offices."

Barney is now in real trouble because, thanks to his demands, profits of Flipper's are up 30 per cent, and he is made a vice president in charge of promotion. He is so busy thinking up new ideas that he has little time for fermenting revolution. In keeping with his position, he has a new apartment, a new car and he spends his evenings at First Avenue bars meeting airline stewardesses. The only rvolutionary activity he has time for is reading Marcuse on the Long Island Railroad when he goes to Westhampton for the weekend.

ONCE, IN A MOMENT of extreme guilt, Barney sits down on the floor in the president's office to show his disdain for the system. But when the president and other executives come in, they all join him on the floor and they hold a meeting on how to increase the store's charge accounts. The president finds everyone so much more relaxed when they sit on the floor that he orders all the furniture taken out of his office.

At the end of the summer Barney is offered his own store, which Flipper's is opening in Westchester County; and since he's too ashamed to go back to his SDS chapter and tell them he's executive vice president of Flipper's, he accepts. And so the Students for a Democratic Society lose another good man.

Thoughts For The Day

The university tolerates within itself all points of view, however impractical or unattractive they may be to some, in order to allow free consideration of all ideas. But there is one point of view, therefore, that it cannot tolerate, and that is the intolerance of individual freedom of thought.

—Dr. George E. Pake, excutive vice chancellor and provost of Washington University, St. Louis.

There is a great deal of sympathy on the part of the majority of students for the cause of black people and other minority groups. But where it is shown that an individual has precipitated through riotous conduct, through inflammatory statement ori ncendiary action — that he is involved in a crime — then that individual must expect to be punished, just like anybody else who violates the law.

'A Fellow Could Get His Feet Wet That Way'

VICTOR RIESEL

Honoring A Labor Veteran

NEW YORK — It was not meant to be but it was widow Coretta Scott King's evening. She came — albeit fashionably and dramatically late — to join with many leaders in honoring the veteran black labor leader, A. Philip Randolph, at 80, still eloquent, still resonant of voice, still fiercely proud of, among other causes, having led the sleeping car porters.

Victor Riesel

Others had come and gone from the thickly jammed Waldorf-Astoria Grand Ballroom on the night of May 6. Nelson Rockefeller had thrown away his manuscript and wound up in a minute or two by saying he hoped "little Nelson," his son, would grow up to be the man Phil Randolph is. John Lindsay, tall in his boots as he fights for his political existence, spoke quickly, tensely and with sophistication before returning to the city streets where that day police had had to protect firemen from college demonstrators, students had fought with bats and clubs, and at least one university president had apologized for police intervention needed to protect firefighters attempting to quench flames in a citadel of higher learning.

There was George Meany, labor's president, uneasy in a dinner jacket. He took his five minutes to say that labor had not always eased the black worker's life but now the unions were trying and would try harder because there is still a long journey to the millennium.

THEN SLOWLY, gracefully, dazzling in her white long-sleeved, high-necked bead-trimmed gown, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. made her entrance. Her voice reflected her training, her poise, her confidence; her speech showed the awareness that she now, in the public prints, carried her husband's banner.

Instantly she turned the honoring of A. Philip Randolph into a mass rally for the 400 Charleston hospital strikers. Instantly it was she, with her advisers offstage, who was assuming leadership of what will be the most clangorous and clamorous unionization drive the South has known since John Lewis hurled his CIO legions against the mills of steel and rubber.

It was not the speech her hosts had asked her to make. It was not the tribute of women to Phil Randolph, who for 60 years and more has fought for his causes in the public squares of the land. It was, rather, 14 minutes of subdued but polished oratory, while the men who were chartering planes for the mass flight to Charleston, the men who had led the Memphis strike, the men who were counseling and financing the grape strike, the men who had organized the 1963 massive March on Washington, listened, squirmed a bit and were not at all sure they had not been supplanted by the widow and the Southern Christian Leadership Council (SCLC).

A few minutes later, the NAACP's Roy Wilkins rose. Softly he spoke, as to a father one loves deeply as a friend and companion and not out of the compulsion of flesh and blood. He had in hand a book of messages to "Phil" — from President Nixon and the elusive Lyndon Johnson and hundreds more.

THIS VOLUME HE HANDED to A. Philip Randolph, who never found the White House more exciting than riding a night train with his brother unionists.

And then he spoke and it was late. Only one newsman stayed, for this newsman never has left a room in which Phil Randolph was set to speak. He had not asked his lyrical comrade Bayard Rustin to write him a speech. He had made notes on the back of a menu. And, since they are words from an old fighter to the young, they should not be lost.

"Our ceremony of rededication," said the still stalwart Randolph across the generation gap to the young around him, including the widow Coretta Scott King, "is to the cause of freedom, but it is also to the principles governing the means by which freedom must be achieved.

"In my life I have tried to abide by the principles of democracy, nonviolence and integration, but there are some today, particularly among our black youth, who would question the validity of these principles in our on-going struggle.

"WE MUST REJECT confrontationism, and together reaffirm the necessity for democratic means of political protest.

"We must reject violence, and together reaffirm the power and the wisdom of nonviolence. And we must reject racial separatism and together, with the conviction that one day our nation can cease to divide within itself, reaffirm our abiding faith in integration.

"Salvation for the Negro masses must come from within. Freedom is never granted; it is won. Justice is never given; it is exacted. But in our struggle we must draw for strength upon something that far transcends the boundary of race. We must draw upon the capacity of human beings to act with humanity towards one another. We must draw upon the human potential for kindness and decency. And we must have faith that this society, divided by race and by class, and subject to profound social pressures, can one day become a nation of equals, at peace with each other and with themselves."

Perhaps it was not all Coretta King's evening after all. There was something quite fiery in the youthful resonance of the 80-year-old fighter.

Wisdom — tempered by realism forged in a thousand battles.

A Question Of Behavior

WASHINGTON — Proposals are being made by some members of Congress calling for the impeachment of Justice Abe Fortas of the Supreme Court. But the Constitution limits the impeachment power of Congress solely to "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

A different section of the Constitution would have to be invoked, as there is no proof that Mr. Fortas engaged in any acts covered by the above phraseology. "Life" magazine, in its article exposing the affair, says no evidence of bribery was found. Mr. Fortas received a fee of $20,000 for services to a charitable foundation created by Louis Wolfson, but returned the payment when Mr. Wolfson was indicted in a stock-manipulation case. He was later convicted and now is in jail.

JUSTICES USUALLY disqualify themselves from sitting on any matter coming before the court that, directly or indirectly, involves their family or relatives, former clients or personal investments. Mr. Fortas declares that he did not participate in any way in the Wolfson case.

Congress, however, does have a broad power which could bring about the removal of any justice who has committed an indiscretion that casts a shadow on the prestige of the court of which he is a member. The Constitution says:

"The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior."

No mention is made of "life tenure," and no definition is given of "good behavior." But it may be assumed that, once the Senate has confirmed an appointee, the upper house has a right to terminate his service provided the President also decides ot declare a vacancy. If, for instance, the Senate and the President concluded that a judge had violated the concept of "good behavior," the passage of a resolution concurred in by the President might well be regarded as a logical assertion of constitutional power.

"Good behavior" could be construed to cover any personal action which would be deemed an impropriety. This is something which may be considered by the judiciary committee of the Senate in connection with a thorough inquiry into the facts and circumstances surrounding some alleged "misbehavior" on the part of a justice.

Should justices, for example, accept lecture fees from organizations involved in controversies about public affairs? Should anyone on the bench make address discussing specific decisions or rulings of the courts? Should any judge sit on a case which involves, direct, or indirectly, his part connections with a law firm or business? These are points on which a comprehensive investigation and report by the Senate Judiciary Committee would certainly prove helpful and might tend to prevent such errors from being committed.

For Justice Fortas is not the only member of the federal judiciary who at one time or another has accepted money for lecturing or for the performance of duties outside the court, and there has been some discussion in the press and in Congress about them. Also, Justice Fortas, when nominated for the chief justiceship by President Johnson last year, was criticized for having sat in conferences with Mr. Johnson on some governmental matters while serving on the bench, though he received no fee.

THE JUDICIAL BRANCH is supposd to be completely separate from the executive branch of the government. However unwise or mistaken Mr. Fortas might have been in acting at times in the role of personal adviser to a president, there is no precedent for a reprimand or penalty.

Certainly, even if no adverse conclusions were reached by the committee concerning the behavior of Justice Fortas, the proceedings would clear up doubts as to what Congress thinks is proper or improper, and judges could be guided thereby in the future.

There is a widespread feeling in Congress that Mr. Fortas and other justices have been doing things of the bench that are not consistent with the dignity or prestige of the highest court in the land and that the President and the Senate should at least take some steps to define what is not considered to be "good behavior."

Expediting New Bridge Plans

Just seven months after engineers recommended one-way traffic be ordered on the weakened Chester Bridge—with closing of the span in 1970—the bridge has been closed to all traffic.

Just 14 months after engineers advised the Ohio Department of Highways the aging span should be replaced "as soon as possible," the bridge is being put out of commission because of the rapid deterioration of its cables.

The most unhappy motorist forced to detour to Newell or Shippingport cannot criticize the closing of the span based on the declining safety factor.

The report by the engineers following last month's inspection, listing parted wires in the cables, makes one shudder about what might happen if the bridge were kept in use. There is a strong possibility that had there not been the Silver Bridge disaster which spurred inspection of the Chester span, we might well have had such a collapse and heavy loss of life off our own shores.

Skeptics who seemingly were inconvinced about the bridge hazard must join the rest of us in facing up to the reality of a major transportation problem between our communities. The economic effects of losing truck travel across the Ohio River here were critical enough; now, the time, distance, congestion and other problems connected with re-routing auto travel will have a major effect upon our local economy.

Highway officials, who have indicated the various engineering surveys have been continuing apace and generally on schedule, admit off the record this new crisis should have the effect of "expediting" planning and preliminary work.

Optimistic predictions of a new bridge here for 1971 have obviously turned sour. Strangulation of industrial and commercial operations in our area is now at the crisis stage, and the economic potential of East Liverpool is placed in limbo by this isolation from main highway routing.

Officials of West Virginia and Ohio hopefully will re-evaluate this problem involving the industries, the taxpayers and the development of both states, and undertake some action which will bring results, as the original engineering report urged, "as soon as possible."

For Justice Fortas is not the only member of the federal judiciary who at one time or another has accepted money for lecturing or for the performance of duties outside the court, and there has been some discussion in the press and in Congress about them. Also, Justice Fortas, when nominated for the chief justiceship by President Johnson last year, was criticized for having sat in conferences with Mr. Johnson on some governmental matters while serving on the bench, though he received no fee.

THE JUDICIAL BRANCH is supposd to be completely separate from the executive branch of the government. However unwise or mistaken Mr. Fortas might have been in acting at times in the role of personal adviser to a president, there is no precedent for a reprimand or penalty.

Certainly, even if no adverse conclusions were reached by the committee concerning the behavior of Justice Fortas, the proceedings would clear up doubts as to what Congress thinks is proper or improper, and judges could be guided thereby in the future.

There is a widespread feeling in Congress that Mr. Fortas and other justices have been doing things of the bench that are not consistent with the dignity or prestige of the highest court in the land and that the President and the Senate should at least take some steps to define what is not considered to be "good behavior."

ANN LANDERS

Tabacco Tired Teens

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: This letter should be of interest to "Smokehouse Secretary" and others who resent being gassed by inconsiderate slobs who smoke and think every one else should put up with it. Help is on the way!!

Sixty-four teen-agers in Bakersfield, Calif., are conducting an advertising campaign which we created ourselves. Our aim is to make smoking look dumb and ridiculous instead of glamourous. We call the project "Smoke Out."

Here's what we're doing: We have launched a full-scale advertising campaign — mostly radio and TV. We got started with the help of the Kern County Interagency Council on Smoking and Health.

We have buttons, book covers and bumper stickers which say one of our radio commercials: "Worried about the population explosion? Have a cigarette." Another: "Don't smoke in bed. You might burn a hole in your lungs."

One of our TV commercials shows an elegantly gowned woman—smoking. A voice says, "She Smokes." Then there's a shot of burning trash. Another voice says, "So does the city dump."

Our project is a tremendous success out here in Bakersfield and we hope it spreads to other communities.—Gloria Zigner, project coordinator.

Dear Gloria: So do I. As a nonsmoker who has croaked and choked on other people's cigarette smoke for too many years, I'm delighted with your project.

I urge teen-agers in other cities who want information on how to get started to write to Smoke Out, P.O. Box 4, Bakersfield, Calif. 93302. And now, you readers out there who are under the impression that our country's teen-agers divide their time among smoking marijuana, roaming in gangs and committing mayhem on the city's streets, please read this again.

Fussy Family

Dear Ann: Our G.I. son is bringing home an Oriental bride. His father and I, his sisters and their husbands have talked it over and agree to make her feel welcome.

Some of the aunts and uncles are upset about the marriage and have let us know that they have no intention of accepting her. This means our son will not be welcome in their homes, either.

Our two daughters married out of their faith. It was a blow to us but we have grown to know and love both young men and they are wonderful husbands and fathers. Accepting a daughter-in-law of another race is more difficult, but we are prepared to do whatever we can to make the girl feel loved and wanted.

The problem: What can we do about the members of the family who have let us know that they do not approve of this marriage? Our son is unaware of their feelings. Shall we tell him?—N.J.

Dear N.J. Tell him what? That some of his relatives don't wish to meet his wife?

Why be the bearer of such news as that? Say nothing and let your son call all the family when he returns. Those who do not wish to see him will tell him so. Stay out of it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Rabies Clinics Set For Dogs In Hancock County

Rabies clinics have been set for dog owners in Hancock County who wish to obtain "shots" for their animals.

They follow, as announced by Dog Warden Irwin Higgs:

May 17, Costadi's Market in Weirton; May 24, New Cumberland Junior High; May 31, at the dog pound in Gas Valley; June 7, Chester City Hall; June 14, Newell Junior High, and June 21, Liberty School in Weirton.

The hours will be from 10 a. m. until noon, with the price per shot $2.

Higgs also pointed to a conflict in West Virginia state law and community ordinances relative to dogs being allowed to run at large.

He said the state law declares that any dog which has a license and rabies shots may run loose, with the owners responsible for any damage resulted.

However, ordinances in Chester, New Cumberland and Weirton state that all dogs must be confined. Higgs points out that as a state official he cannot enforce the city ordinances, this being a job for municipal officials.

He said that under state law any owner who fails to get rabies shots for a dog is libel for a fine of from $25 to $100.

Attempt 'To Dirty Man Up'

Licavoli Assails Life's Recent Attack On Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Reputed rackets figure Thomas "Yonnie" Licavoli says Life magazine's recent attack on Gov. James A. Rhodes was an attempt "to dirty that man up."

Licavoli, once linked to the powerful Cosa Nostra, also denied during an exclusive interview with WLW-C Television in the Ohio Penitentiary Monday night that he (Licavoli) still has connections with the underworld.

"I'm just as clean and I think Gov. Rhodes is just as clean as any person could be in regards to these matters," Licavoli said.

Licavoli, who is serving a life sentence in the Ohio Penitentiary for the gangland slayings of four persons in Toledo during the early 1930s, told newsmen that the magazine article was full of lies and rumors."

The article accused Rhodes of manipulating campaign funds for personal use and accused Licavoli of controlling the numbers racket in Ohio from his prison cell.

Licavoli has served 35 years in the Ohio penitentiary.

Life criticized Rhodes for commuting Licavoli's sentence from first to second - degree murder, thus making him eligible for parole. The article said the Mafia has organized a $250,000 fund to get Licavoli out of prison and that the racketeer's recent stay in a Columbus hospital because of a heart attack may not have been legitimate.

"I can disprove most of the things they wrote there," Licavoli said. He called the accusations concerning the fund for his release "a lot of rumors, lies and innuendoes.

"Somebody wants to keep me in here more than anything else. There's no such fund, there never has been such a fund."

Regarding his desire for parole, Licavoli said:

"Anytime there has been any . . . how would you say that, mercy, or some recommendation for release or commutation in my case, someone . . . starts a rumor and it seems to scare them (parole officials) away or something."

Licavoli said that each time he has sought clemency "some magazine or paper starts the same old thing, rehash, rehash the case. Let's forget about what I did and give me a chance to go home to my family, my grandchildren, my wife and my daughter."

Speaking of his reported heart attack of March 28, and his subsequent 20 days in a Columbus hospital, Licavoli said doctor's records would verify his illness and that he had been administered the last rites during his stay.

Licavoli said he hopes for a commutation of his sentence, saying "I think I should have the same chance," as other prisoners who have been released.

Licavoli maintains that his health is bad.

"I'm sick, very sick," he said.

"I've reached the age where I can't get around even if I wanted to, let alone trying to think of doing anything wrong."

He told interviewers that he is blind in one eye, has only 40 per cent in the other and "I don't know how long that's going to last."

"I have no connection with any underworld," Licavoli said. "All this talk about me having this connection with this and that, I have no connections."

Licavoli also claimed that the underworld figures he knew before his imprisonment now are dead.

Although Rhodes commuted his sentence the parole board has refused to free Licavoli. He maintains, however, that he will keep trying.

"I have put in 35 years, and 35 years is a long, long time brother. I don't care how you say it," he said.

The DOCTOR Says

Lack Of B-12 May Cause Depression

—A member of my family has been treated for three years by a psychiatrist for depression. The only treatment prescribed is a tranquilizer. I have heard that a lack of niacin could be the cause and that when it is given the victim improves. What do you think?

Dr. Brandstadt

A — Since niacin is a part of the vitamin B complex and since a deficiency of vitamin B-12 has been shown to cause depression in the elderly, I would suppose that niacin might also be helpful in selected cases where a deficiency of this vitamin could be shown.

Q — What is involutional depression? Is there any cure?

A — This is a type of depression sometimes seen in persons, especially women, who are 50 or over. Although it cannot be cured it can now be controlled by removing the cause and by giving an antidepressant, such as desipramine or amitriptyline.

Q — I am taking Elavil for depression associated with the menopause. How long should I take it? Are there any bad side effects?

A — This type of depression is also called involutional melancholia. If the drug you are taking helps you, you should continue it indefinitely. If the dosage is properly adjusted there should be no side effects. With too large a dosage there may be increased drowsiness, dizziness, heartburn, nausea, tremors, weakness or headache.

Q — I have been taking Parnate and Stelazine for eight years. When I don't take them I have severe fits of depression. Would the new drug, imipramine, be better?

A — Both of the drugs you are taking are effective antidepressants. Several others are available but they would not necessarily be better for you.

Q — Can you give me the title of a book for use in the home as a family medical guide We have excellent doctors but they are too busy to explain matters to us in detail.

A — The most recent comprehensive book of this kind is "Today's Health Guide," published by the American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn, Chicago, Ill. 60610. If you prefer a paperback I can recommend "The Official American Medical Association Book of Health," edited by Dr. W. W. Bauer and put out by the Dell Publishing Company, 261 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Decision Awaited On Statement

Selection Of Jury Slated In Ex-Policeman's Trial

MASON, Mich. (AP) — The "Algiers Motel" murder trial of a former Detroit policeman reached the jury selection stage today as a decision was awaited on whether a controversial statement can be admitted as evidence.

The statement was made by the defendant, Ronald J. August, 31, to superior officers investigating the slaying of three Negro teen-agers at the motel during Detroit's 1967 riot.

August, who is white, is accused of first-degree murder in the death of one of the youths, 19-year-old Auburey Pollard.

Defense attorneys contend that the statement, in which August said he killed Pollard in self-defense, is not admissible because the patrolman had not been advised of his constitutional rights.

The prosecutor maintains that August made the statement voluntarily after he had been advised of his right to refuse.

Selection of the 12-member jury is taking place in Michigan's capital city of Lansing, with the trial itself scheduled for the little town of Mason, the Ingham County seat.

The proceedings were moved to Ingham County after defense attorneys argued that their client could not get a fair trial in Detroit because of unfavorable publicity and the tense atmosphere in the city.

One delay in the case was ordered because of publication of a book, "The Algiers Motel Incident," by John Hersey.

Pollard and the two other victims—Fred Temple, 18, and Carl Cooper, 17—were shot in the Algiers Motel annex on the night of July 26, 1967.

Police at first reported the three youths were snipers who had lost a gun battle with law enforcement officers, including National Guardsmen.

No guns were reported found in their rooms and later investigation showed that they had died from close-range shotgun blasts.

In addition to August, two other white policemen and a Negro private guard have been involved in a tangle of legal maneuvers growing out of the incident.

All still face a federal charge of conspiracy to violate the civil rights of several occupants of the Algiers Motel, including two white girls.

August is the only defendant to go to trial for murder, although the prosecutor has appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court the dismissal of a murder charge against another policeman.

At a pre-trial examination in 1967, witnesses said police and other men in uniforms rounded up everyone in the motel, lined them up against a wall, and beat them. The two white girls were stripped of some of their clothing, they said.

Patrolman August was reported by witnesses to have taken Pollard into a nearby room. Shortly thereafter, they said, a shotgun blast was heard.

4 School Areas Lose State Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four Ohio school districts lost their state aid Monday because they do not meet basic state requirements.

The Ohio Board of Education revoked the charters of Logan Hills, Buckeye and Belle Center districts in Logan County and the Winchester School District in Adams County.

The action means the schools will be required next term to operate entirely on local funds or to transfer students to other districts.

In other action, the board:

—Approved a $146,000 grant for the Tri-County Joint Vocational School District for enlarging facilities. The district serves Athens, Hocking and Perry counties.

Arroyo Plant Purchased By Los Angeles Concern

The Antox Inc. firm of Los Angeles has purchased the Custom Chemicals Co. plant of Arroyo, Frank J. Mangano of Newell, president of Custom Chemicals, announced this morning.

The facility was obtained about two years ago from the Koppers Co. which erected the plant during the 1950's for nicotinic acid producing.

Antox officials said the concern will be used for production of chemical additives and stabilizers for various organic materials. Custom Chemicals had been reprocessing chemicals for firms such as large steel companies.

Dr. H. B. Cooper of Pasadena, Calif., is president of Antox. Malcom Youker of Pasadena is vice president in charge of administration and marketing and Edward Medcalf of New Jersey is in chargt of research and development.

Antox said its operations will begin immediately. James Allen of Route 8, near Chester, will be plant manager in charge of production and engineering. The facility includes two offices and four other buildings with two distilling towers.

Other officers of Custom are David Boyce, of Chester, vice president, and James Jordan of Chester, secretary.

The firm has employed five.

Commission To Set Hearing On W. 6th St. Zoning Change

The City Planning Commission, at a meeting Monday in City Hall, agreed to set a public hearing date on an application for a change in zoning for the block-long stretch on the north side of W. 6th St. between Jackson and Jefferson Sts. and an adjoining small section that fronts on W. 7th St. near Jackson.

The original application for rezoning, filed by the Martin Funeral Home, Inc., of W. 5th St., asked a change in one section of the tract from an R-3 district — medium high density residential — to B-5, central business district. In buying the tract a few months ago, the concern indicated it expected to build a new funeral home.

Subsequently, other property-owners in the stretch west to Jefferson St. and east to Jackson St. joined in the application so that the change would affect the entire north side of W. 6th in that block, the commission said. The affected area on W. 7th St. takes in the first five lots west of Jefferson St.

The commission, reviewing the application yesterday, authorized George Steele, chairman, to publish a notice of public hearing on the request, but did not specify a date for the hearing.

The funeral home acquired property on the north side of W. 6th a few months ago from the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters. The IBOP subsequently bought real estate on the south side of W. 6th St., close to its former international headquarters where its weekly newspaper is published.

Steele urged yesterday that the city push ahead with an application to participate in a federal program for rehabilitation of existing property and construction of new units under Section 23 of the U.S. housing laws.

He said a plan for extension of the Freeway into East End will eliminate many existing house units and new dwellings will be required for relocation of the residents.

"I think we should move ahead now, rather than waiting until there is an urgent need for new and remodeled residences," he said.

Marvin Wooley, housing and zoning inspector, replied that an application to participate in the Section 23 program now is nearing completion. The city will be ready to move as soon as federal approval is received, he added.

Steele pointed out the program would provide money for rehabilitation of homes which might not now pass the city' inspection. Larger older homes could be renovated into duplexes, he said. Wooley added that the program also provides funds for construction of new homes.

The meeting also was attended by James Grafton, Frank Mangano, J. Clifford Conley, Mayor George E. Willshaw and Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey. The next regular meeting will be June 9.

Originally fuller's earth, which resembles clay in appearance, was used to remove grease from cloth and wool. It gets its name from the process, which is called "fulling."

The DOCTOR Says

Lack Of B-12 May Cause Depression

—A member of my family has been treated for three years by a psychiatrist for depression. The only treatment prescribed is a tranquilizer. I have heard that a lack of niacin could be the cause and that when it is given the victim improves. What do you think?

Dr. Brandstadt

A — Since niacin is a part of the vitamin B complex and since a deficiency of vitamin B-12 has been shown to cause depression in the elderly, I would suppose that niacin might also be helpful in selected cases where a deficiency of this vitamin could be shown.

Q — What is involutional depression? Is there any cure?

A — This is a type of depression sometimes seen in persons, especially women, who are 50 or over. Although it cannot be cured it can now be controlled by removing the cause and by giving an antidepressant, such as desipramine or amitriptyline.

Q — I am taking Elavil for depression associated with the menopause. How long should I take it? Are there any bad side effects?

A — This type of depression is also called involutional melancholia. If the drug you are taking helps you, you should continue it indefinitely. If the dosage is properly adjusted there should be no side effects. With too large a dosage there may be increased drowsiness, dizziness, heartburn, nausea, tremors, weakness or headache.

Q — I have been taking Parnate and Stelazine for eight years. When I don't take them I have severe fits of depression. Would the new drug, imipramine, be better?

A — Both of the drugs you are taking are effective antidepressants. Several others are available but they would not necessarily be better for you.

Q — Can you give me the title of a book for use in the home as a family medical guide We have excellent doctors but they are too busy to explain matters to us in detail.

A — The most recent comprehensive book of this kind is "Today's Health Guide," published by the American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn, Chicago, Ill. 60610. If you prefer a paperback I can recommend "The Official American Medical Association Book of Health," edited by Dr. W. W. Bauer and put out by the Dell Publishing Company, 261 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Quick Plea Scheduled In Evans' Case

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Defense attorneys have indicated they will waste no time in appealing the first-degree murder conviction of Black Nationalist Fred "Ahmed" Evans, and a batch of newspaper clippings apparently will play a major role in the appeal.

The 37-year-old Evans, astrologer and former Army sergeant, was convicted Monday on seven counts of murder and sentenced to death in the slayings of four men during the Glenville gun battle between snipers and police last July 23.

The newspaper clippings which turned up mysteriously among trial exhibits during jury deliberations were reproductions of old stories concerning the personal troubles of defense attorney Stanley Tolliver.

Most of the stories dealt with charges of professional misconduct against Tolliver, who was cleared of the charges by the Ohio Supreme Court in 1966.

The clipps, reproduced on a single sheet of paper, were turned over to the court bailiff by the jury foreman Sunday.

Tolliver and co-defense attorney Charles W. Fleming contend the clippings prejudiced the trial.

Judge George J. McMonagle denied their motion for a mistrial, ruling that the clippings had no bearing on the case.

Tolliver said immediately that ruling would be appealed to a higher court.

The all-white jury in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court found Evans guilty on all counts in the deaths of three policemen and a Negro civilian who tried to rescue one of the policemen. The jury did not recommend mercy, making the death penalty mandatory.

Judge McMonagle sentenced Evans to die in the electric chair Sept. 22, and the Black Nationalist leader was taken out immediately under heavy guard and transported to the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus.

Two sheriff's cruisers and two State Highway Patrol cars accompanied the paddy wagon in which Evans, shackled hands and feet, was taken to Columbus.

Tolliver said appeals would be made "to every court through to the U.S. Supreme Court" if necessary.

White House Eyes Senate For Job Corps Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House apparently is seeking a Senate showdown on the battle over President Nixon's order closing 59 Job Corps centers and is looking to Dixie Democrats for the balance of power.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., says he understands the White House wants him to withdraw his counter-resolution that could blunt a move by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., asking delay on the closings.

"I have heard indirectly that they'de like me not to press it (his resolution) and have a straight confrontation on the issue," Javits told a reporter. "I understood their disposition was to let this be voted up or voted down."

Javits said, however, he is not planning to withdraw his resolution.

Monday's opening debate was strictly party - line with only Democrats speaking for the Cranston measure and only Republicans speaking against it.

Asked Monday night if Cranston's measure would carry on an immediate vote of the Senate's 57 Democrats and 43 Republicans, Javits said: "It looks that way. I would say that'll depend on whether we can unravel things tomorrow."

Nixon's move would cut the 35,000-member Job Corps nearly in half saving an estimated $100 million a year.

Cranston's resolution would ask, but not bind, the administration to delay the closings now due by July 7 until Congress can study the program and alternatives.

Javits' proposal would put the Senate on record in favor of Nixon's position, which includes the promise of another training opportunity for every enrollee aid an increase in the number of youths involved.

GOP hopes for support from 16 Dixie Democrats took a setback Monday when Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., announced support for Cranston's resolution.

Opponents to the Cranston resolution say the Job Corps is ineffective.

One of them, Sen. Winston Prouty, R-Vt., said there is an attempt to picture the administration as callous to the needy.

"Certain groups, including, I have reason to believe, employes of the Job Corps and the Office of Economic Opportunity have been desperately searching for an issue to use as a straw man for the purpose of precipitating a confrontation with the administration in the hope of discrediting it in the eyes of the American people as an administration unconcerned with the problems of the uneducated, the unskilled and the disadvantaged," Prouty told the Senate.

Cranston told the Senate he just wants the administration to offer a better plan, explaining he is not defending the entire Job Corps program:

"It is imperfect, like all government programs. Changes are in order in the Job Corps. There may be a better approach to the training of these disadvantaged young people."

Pompidou, Poher Head French List

PARIS (AP) — With the lists closing at midnight, former Premier Georges Pompidou and Provisional President Alain Poher were the front runners today in the French presidential race.

Both men are middle-of-the-roaders in the French political specirum.

The other major candidates in the June 1 election all come from the divided left, and the split presumably means none can get into the June 15 runoff. They are Jacques Duclos of the Communist party; Michel Rocard of the far-left Progressive Socialist party; Alain Krivine, a Trotskyite; and Gaston Deferre of the Socialists.

Any candidate who manages to get 100 signatures of elected office holders on a petition by midnight also will be on the ballot. One such hopefully is Nelly Bonart-Pontary, a 40-year-old woman lawyer and mother who said she did not expect to win but wanted to run to make the nation's women "aware of their own strength."

Poher, as president of the Senate, was virtually unknown to the French public before he took a leading part in the campaign to defeat Charles de Gaulle's reform bill last month. De Gaulle's subsequent resignation catapulted Poher to the interim presidency, and he announced Monday he would run for a full term as chief executive.

The latest polls indicate the 60-year-old Centrist has the backing of nearly half the nation.

Poher has a quiet, self-effacing manner. He entered the race by sending an aide to announce that his campaign slogan would be "the union and reconciliation of the French."

His chief objection to De Gaulle's reform bill was that it would have stripped the Senate of its remaining legislative power. His position on France's student and labor problems and major issues in Europe—the monetary crisis, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, relations with the Soviet Union and admission of Britain to the Common Market—have not been spelled out.

Pompidou, 57, De Gaulle's premier for six years, was a heavy favorite when he announced his candidacy shortly after De Gaulle's resignation two weeks ago, but the public opinion samplings show Poher has drained much of his support.

Pompidou generally supports Gaullist principles but pledged last week to be flexible in his approach and said he favored an expanded Europe.

At a meeting of Common Market foreign ministers in Luxembourg Monday, Miche Debre of France maintained his country's opposition to expansion of the European economic community. Joseph Luns of the Netherlands defended Britain's application but indicated no drive will be made to expand the Common Market until after the French election next month and West Germany's general election in September.

Th future of a united Europe, Luns said, still lies "in the mists of autumn."

Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark are seeking membership in the Common Market, now made up of Belgium, France, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and West Germany.

Police Memorial Rite Emphasized In Proclamation

Plans for the annual Police Officers Memorial Day Thursday were stressed in a proclamation issued Monday by Mayor George E. Willshaw setting aside the period ending Saturday for observance of National Police Week in East Liverpool.

Arranged by Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 29, the memorial rite will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. at the monument in front of City Hall. The FOP will conduct the ritual. Officers from neighboring departments have been invited. Patrolman Charles Coen, FOP president, emphasized the rite is open to the public and that coffee and doughnuts will be served.

The mayor's proclamation praised East Liverpool officers "who have worked devotedly and selflessly in behalf of the people of this city, regardless of the peril or hazard to themselves." It cited their efforts in "safeguarding the lives and property of their fellow citizens and giving our city internal freedom from fear of violence and civil disorder."

The mayor asked the public to join in the memorial observance "to honor the federal, state and municipal officers who have been killed or disabled in line of duty. . . ."

Police Memorial Rite Emphasized In Proclamation

Plans for the annual Police Officers Memorial Day Thursday were stressed in a proclamation issued Monday by Mayor George E. Willshaw setting aside the period ending Saturday for observance of National Police Week in East Liverpool.

Arranged by Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 29, the memorial rite will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. at the monument in front of City Hall. The FOP will conduct the ritual. Officers from neighboring departments have been invited. Patrolman Charles Coen, FOP president, emphasized the rite is open to the public and that coffee and doughnuts will be served.

The mayor's proclamation praised East Liverpool officers "who have worked devotedly and selflessly in behalf of the people of this city, regardless of the peril or hazard to themselves." It cited their efforts in "safeguarding the lives and property of their fellow citizens and giving our city internal freedom from fear of violence and civil disorder."

The mayor asked the public to join in the memorial observance "to honor the federal, state and municipal officers who have been killed or disabled in line of duty. . . ."

Millage Unchanged

Midland Board Acts On Budget

The Midland Board of Education Monday night tentatively adopted a budget of $1,425,306 and outlined an agreement with the Midland Education Association. Final budget approval is scheduled May 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The millage remains unchanged at 47 on an assessed valuation of $16,127,022. The budget represents an increase of $432,278 over last year. The millage was hiked from 45 to 47 last year.

Included in the budget are pay raises for all school personnel, continuation of the pre - school program, elementary guidance and the Saturday program, salary adjustments and fringe benefits for teachers, Midland's share to the Community College and funds for planning the new elementary school building.

Teachers' salaries were set at standard, $6,000-$9,000; bachelors degree, $6,000-$9,600; master's, $6,300 - $10,200, and master's plus 3 hours, $6,600 - $10,800.

THE AGREEMENT with the association is the second year of a two year contract.

In the 1968 - 69 phase of the contract, teachers received a total across the board increase of $900, which included one increment of $300 and one adiustment of $600. In the 1969-70 school year they will receive one increment of $300 and an additional adjustment for each employee on schedule.

The board paid $4 toward the cost of Blue Shield for the teachers in 1968-69 and will pay another $4.46 this year for a total of $8.46, which is the total employe's share. Employees must pay for additional cost of any husband or wife in the plan.

Life insurance includes a $2,000 premium paid by the school in 1968-69 and another $2,000 in 1969-70 for a total of $4,000. Employees who have insurance elsewhere, and who do not participate in the health plan will be given additional life insurance. This includes $2,000 in 1968-69 and another $2,000 in 1969-70.

—:—

PERSONAL LEAVE requests will be considered individually. Accumulated sick leave benefits will be as follows:

Beginning next term, retiring teachers will be paid $10 per unused day with a maximum of $750 to be paid any one teacher. Unused days will be counted beginning the 1969-70 school year.

Teachers who retire within the next five years will be granted $250 in addition to the unused days beginning with the coming school year. Fringe benefiits will be granted under the school policy of retirement with 35 years service or at age 65.

In order to receive the accumulated sick leave benefits, the teacher must have served in the district five full years preceeding retirement. A sabbatical leave would count as a year of service, but would not include an accumulation of 10 sick days leave.

Sabbatical leaves will be granted to teachers who have 10 years of service, with five consecutive years in the district, for health, study or travel. Recipients will receive one half pay. Increment rights will be retained and the board will pay their share of retirement. The employee continues membership in the retirement association with the proper benefits paid and all fringe benefits will be retained. A second sabbatical leave may be granted after the next seven years of satisfactory service.

THE BOARD agreed to issue to each employee at the end of the 1968-69 school year a total amount of accumulated sick leave days credited to each. The board said it will continue to be competitive with other school districts in Beaver County in all areas of teachers salaries and fringe benefits. The agreement will end in August 1970.

Chester Council Awaits Bid For Street Projects

A bid has been received from the M.R.W. Asphalt and Construction Co. of Hanoverton, with a bid still due from the Tri-State Asphalt Co.

Additional plans for the program will be made at Council's next meeting.

Councilman Frank DeCapio, chairman of the project, pointed out work cannot be started until after July 1 and possibly not until early August.

Streets to be seal-coated follow:

First Ward: Pennsylvania Ave., Fairview Rd., Linger Dr. Ferry Rd., Finley Rd., 1st St. to Indiana Ave. and 2nd St. Hill.

Second Ward: Maxwell Ave., Alaska Ave., Louisiana Ave., Central School Alley, Short St., George St., Line St., Oakwood, Indiana Ave. from 2nd to 5th Sts.

William Wedgewood, councilman for the Fifth Ward, said he has received complaints of sewage running across Alba Ave. At the present, he said, there is nothing there but an open ditch. It was pointed out that a letter has been sent to the state engineers in Wheeling, but no reply received as yet. The problem will be referred to the Sewer Board Wednesday night.

Lee Haney, secretary for the volunter fire department, requested an insurance program that would cover firemen manning boats during river rescue operations.

Council will investigate the situation and report at its next meeting.

Kenneth Williams, 5th Ward Councilman, reported trucks have flipped off a man-hole cover at 3rd and Carolina Ave. posing a hazard to pedestrians. Action will be taken to replace the cover.

Williams also reported on a traffic problem near George's Restaurant caused by trucks in a restricted zone while the drivers are in the restaurant. Passing autoists must go over into the other lane in order to avoid the trucks, he said. This occurs in the early morning rush hour. Mayor Ash said he would notify the drivers that this practice must stop.

Council went on record approved a plan by the PTA for formation of a Block Mothers Club. Each block would have a mother designated by a sign in her window that the children could report to in case of accident or emergency.

Jack Allison was appointed by Council to fill a vacancy on the Water and Sewer Board created by the resignation of Frank Decapio who quit to devote more attention to the street improvement program. Allison will serve from May 1, 1969, to July 1, 1970.

Inspection

invited, along with members of the Wellsville Board of Health.

Frazier said the state acted under a section of the code that provides when the director of the Ohio Health Department determines that local food service operators are not being inspected properly, the state director is required to assure that they will be inspected by other means.

The state ordinarily surveys a local subdivision once yearly to determine if, there is compliance, he said. In Wellsville's case, the state made a survey in October and another in April "and both indicated the program was not being carried out properly." he said.

"We don't want this (state inspection) to go on any longer than it has to," Frazier said. "The State Health Department is not geared to do local inspections. It has seven men who act as food sanitarian consultants to the 165 or more local health departments all across the state."

Queried about the status of the permits of the Wellsville food service operators, Frazier said: "Their licenses were issued validly and they will stand."

He said the state will send an inspector to Wellsville periodically to check the food operators for compliance with laws and regulations of the health department.

what's going on," the mayor commented.

Ford McQuilkin, county Republican chairman, told the mayor last week he discussed the imperative need of a bridge with Gov. James A. Rhodes. Although the span is primarily a West Virginia responsibility, Rhodes told McQuilkin Ohio has sufficient money in its bridge fund to erect the span, but would have to recoup its expenditure by applying tolls.

In addition, Ohio and West Virginia authorities would have to agree on the construction details, primarily the location of the span, the mayor pointed out.

Magnesium is unique in that it weighs more after it has been burned, its ashes weighing more than the metal itself.

McKinley School Plan

Classroom Changes Get Board OK At Wellsville

Transfer of special education and kindergarten classes to the McKinley School and other revisions for the Wellsville building were approved by the board of education Monday night.

Supt. Donald Lowe recommended the changes in line with what he termed more efficient use of the education facilities. The Ohio Department of Education has approved housing both of the district's special education classes in the building along with two kindergarten classes.

The present McKinley School classes and enrollment are: First grade 17, second grade 12, third grade 12 and special education 17. Lowe said the per pupil cost of the operations of the building — erected in 1891 — is the highest in the district.

The proposed changes would continue in effect until a new building could be constructed after approval of funds by voters.

SUPT. LOWE listed seven benefits expected from the McKinley revisions: 1. Four complete units under the foundation program would be centered at the school, bringing a sizable increase in state funds; 2. second- and third - grade classes, which have been doubled up, will be placed in proper classroom at the McDonald School, providing a better education.

3. The third grade at Garfield, which has an enrollment of 40, would be split into two groups, also providing students a better education; 4. With two special classes housed at McKinley, the opportunity for inter - action of these groups for assemblies and group projects would result.

5. The kindergarten enrollment for each group will be the same for each class, not possible in the past, and would also provide for inter - group programs; 6. Moving the boundary line from 14th St. to 13th St. and having the 18th St. Heights students enroll at Garfield School will permit the groups to be more evenly divided in class size.

7. A request has been made for an additional special education unit for the junior high. If this is approved, the kindergarten classroom at MacDonald building would be used to house this unit.

APPOINTMENT of certificated employes and a school enumerator was approved. Mrs. Patricia Bauman was hired for special education at a salary of $6,380. Joseph Mitchell was hired for three positions — business education teacher at $8,442, head wrestling coach at $600 and assistant football coach and equipment manager at $500, for a total of $9,542.

Mrs. Joanne MacLean was employed to conduct the school enumeration for 1969. A maternity leave of absence was granted Mrs. Madrona Mara, effective June 9. She teaches special education at Hillcrest - Fairview School.

Adoption of the Holt, Rinehart and Winston mathematics textbook series for grades one through eight was approved. Approval was given the issuance of diplomas to the 120 seniors who have fulfilled the state requirements.

Millage Unchanged

Midland Board Acts On Budget

The Midland Board of Education Monday night tentatively adopted a budget of $1,425,306 and outlined an agreement with the Midland Education Association. Final budget approval is scheduled May 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The millage remains unchanged at 47 on an assessed valuation of $16,127,022. The budget represents an increase of $432,278 over last year. The millage was hiked from 45 to 47 last year.

Included in the budget are pay raises for all school personnel, continuation of the pre - school program, elementary guidance and the Saturday program, salary adjustments and fringe benefits for teachers, Midland's share to the Community College and funds for planning the new elementary school building.

Teachers' salaries were set at standard, $6,000-$9,000; bachelors degree, $6,000-$9,600; master's, $6,300 - $10,200, and master's plus 3 hours, $6,600 - $10,800.

THE AGREEMENT with the association is the second year of a two year contract.

In the 1968 - 69 phase of the contract, teachers received a total across the board increase of $900, which included one increment of $300 and one adjustment of $600. In the 1969-70 school year they will receive one increment of $300 and an additional adjustment for each employee on schedule.

The board paid $4 toward the cost of Blue Shield for the teachers in 1968-69 and will pay another $4.46 this year for a total of $8.46, which is the total employe's share. Employees must pay for additional cost of any husband or wife in the plan.

Life insurance includes a $2,000 premium paid by the school in 1968-69 and another $2,000 in 1969-70 for a total of $4,000. Employees who have insurance elsewhere, and who do not participate in the health plan will be given additional life insurance. This includes $2,000 in 1968-69 and another $2,000 in 1969-70.

—:—

PERSONAL LEAVE requests will be considered individually. Accumulated sick leave benefits will be as follows:

Beginning next term, retiring teachers will be paid $10 per unused day with a maximum of $750 to be paid any one teacher. Unused days will be counted beginning the 1969-70 school year.

Teachers who retire within the next five years will be granted $250 in addition to the unused days beginning with the coming school year. Fringe benefits will be granted under the school policy of retirement with 35 years service or at age 65.

In order to receive the accumulated sick leave benefits, the teacher must have served in the district five full years preceeding retirement. A sabbatical leave would count as a year of service, but would not include an accumulation of 10 sick days leave.

Sabbatical leaves will be granted to teachers who have 10 years of service, with five consecutive years in the district, for health, study or travel. Recipients will receive one half pay. Increment rights will be retained and the board will pay their share of retirement. The employee continues membership in the retirement association with the proper benefits paid and all fringe benefits will be retained. A second sabbatical leave may be granted after the next seven years of satisfactory service.

THE BOARD agreed to issue to each employee at the end of the 1968-69 school year a total amount of accumulated sick leave days credited to each. The board said it will continue to be competitive with other school districts in Beaver County in all areas of teachers salaries and fringe benefits. The agreement will end in August 1970.

Supt. Charles Henderson said he is accepting applications for the position of high school secretary following the resignation of Mrs. Margaret Kovalesky, effective June 13. Mrs. Barbara Palyan of Midland who has a bachelors degree from the University of Pittsburgh was added to the substitute list.

A request was granted Explorer Troop 482 of Midland to use the gym on any nights it is available. George Huha is the leader.

—:—

MIDLAND VOLUNTEER Fire Department was given permission to use the auditorium during National Fire Week Oct. 5 for Memorial services. Approval was also given for use of lighting and the gym for feeding participating bands in a parade Oct. 7. Permission was granted the Midland Band to march.

The secretary was authorized to make a partial payment of $6,500 to Joseph Bontempo, architect of the elementary school.

Joel Carr, principal, said the seniors should be given public recognition.

The Beaver County Community College budget of $45,316.93 was approved at 2.81 mills on the assessed valuation of $16,127,022. A resolution was passed authorizing the secretary and school board president to borrow $125,000 in anticipation of the June tax monies.

—:—

PAYMENT OF full summer salaries in June for four teachers was authorized. They are Mrs. Nettie Gottlieb, Miss Mary McIsaac, Mrs. Catherine Riffe and Ivan Dye.

James Cerasi, board member, announced applications are being accepted for playground personnel this summer. He said the employees must be college students of the Midland District.

Sam Rosatone, maintenance supervisor, reported broken bleacher seats at the football stadium are being replaced for Fourth of July events. He said the painting of the auditorium should be completed by Friday in time for the choral concert.

Mayor Ash said he would notify the drivers that this practice must stop.

Inspection

invited, along with members of the Wellsville Board of Health.

Frazier said the state acted under a section of the code that provides when the director of the Ohio Health Department determines that local food service operators are not being inspected properly, the state director is required to assure that they will be inspected by other means.

The state ordinarily surveys a local subdivision once yearly to determine if, there is compliance, he said. In Wellsville's case, the state made a survey in October and another in April "and both indicated the program was not being carried out properly." he said.

"We don't want this (state inspection) to go on any longer than it has to," Frazier said. "The State Health Department is not geared to do local inspections. It has seven men who act as food sanitarian consultants to the 165 or more local health departments all across the state."

Queried about the status of the permits of the Wellsville food service operators, Frazier said: "Their licenses were issued validly and they will stand."

He said the state will send an inspector to Wellsville periodically to check the food operators for compliance with laws and regulations of the health department.

what's going on," the mayor commented.

Ford McQuilkin, county Republican chairman, told the mayor last week he discussed the imperative need of a bridge with Gov. James A. Rhodes. Although the span is primarily a West Virginia responsibility, Rhodes told McQuilkin Ohio has sufficient money in its bridge fund to erect the span, but would have to recoup its expenditure by applying tolls.

In addition, Ohio and West Virginia authorities would have to agree on the construction details, primarily the location of the span, the mayor pointed out.

Magnesium is unique in that it weighs more after it has been burned, its ashes weighing more than the metal itself.

McKinley School Plan

Classroom Changes Get Board OK At Wellsville

Transfer of special education and kindergarten classes to the McKinley School and other revisions for the Wellsville building were approved by the board of education Monday night.

Supt. Donald Lowe recommended the changes in line with what he termed more efficient use of the education facilities. The Ohio Department of Education has approved housing both of the district's special education classes in the building along with two kindergarten classes.

The present McKinley School classes and enrollment are: First grade 17, second grade 12, third grade 12 and special education 17. Lowe said the per pupil cost of the operations of the building — erected in 1891 — is the highest in the district.

The proposed changes would continue in effect until a new building could be constructed after approval of funds by voters.

SUPT. LOWE listed seven benefits expected from the McKinley revisions: 1. Four complete units under the foundation program would be centered at the school, bringing a sizable increase in state funds; 2. second- and third - grade classes, which have been doubled up, will be placed in proper classroom at the McDonald School, providing a better education.

3. The third grade at Garfield, which has an enrollment of 40, would be split into two groups, also providing students a better education; 4. With two special classes housed at McKinley, the opportunity for inter - action of these groups for assemblies and group projects would result.

5. The kindergarten enrollment for each group will be the same for each class, not possible in the past, and would also provide for inter - group programs; 6. Moving the boundary line from 14th St. to 13th St. and having the 18th St. Heights students enroll at Garfield School will permit the groups to be more evenly divided in class size.

7. A request has been made for an additional special education unit for the junior high. If this is approved, the kindergarten classroom at MacDonald building would be used to house this unit.

APPOINTMENT of certificated employes and a school enumerator was approved. Mrs. Patricia Bauman was hired for special education at a salary of $6,380. Joseph Mitchell was hired for three positions — business education teacher at $8,442, head wrestling coach at $600 and assistant football coach and equipment manager at $500, for a total of $9,542.

Mrs. Joanne MacLean was employed to conduct the school enumeration for 1969. A maternity leave of absence was granted Mrs. Madrona Mara, effective June 9. She teaches special education at Hillcrest - Fairview School.

Adoption of the Holt, Rinehart and Winston mathematics textbook series for grades one through eight was approved. Approval was given the issuance of diplomas to the 120 seniors who have fulfilled the state requirements.

Colleges Cry 'Raw, Raw'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that make a college president wish he were running a nursery school:

"They've got the dean of men locked in the men's washroom and thrown away the key."

"Guess what the latest student demand is, sir. They demand parking facilities equal to those allotted to the faculty. Now they're really going too far!"

"Fifty per cent of the faculty voted to go on strike themselves unless you take a firmer hand with the students, and 50 per cent voted to go on strike if you do."

"Do you think it would be of any help if we simply called in the student leaders and asked them to engage in a meaningful dialogue?"

"Except for the fact the Veterinary Building is still on fire, sir, the rest of the campus is relatively quiet."

"You may think you're having your troubles running the university, Dr. Rutherford Romulus Frothingham, but let me tell you as your wife I'm having trouble running your home, too. Our part-time maid has just quit and is carrying a picket sign outside our house. She says she's in sympathy with your student strikers."

"Well, whatever we do, we have to do it soon. The legislature meets next week—and you know what their attitude is toward student revolts."

"As a loyal alumnus of Popinjay U., I find your inaction in the present crisis deeply disturbing. Therefore, I am dropping my plans to contribute $100,000 toward a new student dormitory. However, I'll contribute $200,000 if you'll use it to build a student jail."

"You've tried pampering them. Why not call in the National Guard now and try clubbing some sense into their heads?"

"In essence, sir, the Negro students want a new Center for Afro-American Studies, the Jewish students want a Hebraic Center, the Irish students want a new Institute of Gaelic Culture, the Italian students want an Italo - American Department and our lone student from Egypt is demanding a course on the history of the Arab League—to be taught in Arabic."

"Here's a telegram from the chairman of the university's board of trustees, sir. He's just found out that his son is one of the student strikers and asks that you do everything possible to talk some sense into the boy. He says he can't do a thing with him himself."

"As best we can analyze it, Dr. Frothingham, the five per cent of the student body who want you to resign belong to the Students for a Democratic Society. The five per cent who want you to stay belong to the Students for a Sane Democracy. The remaining 90 per cent apparently don't care a whoop either way. They don't care whether school keeps or not."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — What can I use instead of fat for frying foods?

A. — Fat is not absolutely necessary. Merely rub the pan with common table salt, then shake out, and place the meat to be fried in the pan.

Q. — How can I, when painting with enamel, cause it to flow on more easily and smoothly?

A. — By placing your container of enamel in a pan of hot water for awhile prior to beginning your job.

Q. — How can I soften butter quickly for easier spreading?

A. — Fill a bowl with boiling water, then pour out the water and turn the hot bowl upside down over the butter dish. The butter will soften without melting.

Q. — How can I cope with the torrent of suds that pour out all over the place when I have inadvertently overloaded my washing machine?

A. — If you'll quickly sprinkle salt out of a box onto the suds and into the water, the suds will disappear like magic.

REV. CAMPBELL
Will Present Program.

'Teen Challenge' Leader To Speak At Salineville

The Rev. Warren J. Campbell, director of Teen Challenge of Greater Cleveland, will speak at the Salineville elementary school auditorium Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Daniel W. Barth of Salineville is in charge of arrangements.

Rev. Campbell will review the history and work of the Teen Challenge program and will point out, through stories and illustrations, how the program has been instrumental in the conversion of hundreds of gang members and narcotics addicts.

The program, which was launched in 1958 by the Rev. David Wilkerson, now has centers in most of the major cities of the United States as well as Canada, England and Puerto Rico.

A documentary color film "Teen Revolt," depicting moral and civil rebellion, will be shown.

Rev. Barth said parents, church members, school officials and church leaders are invited to attend and bring young people with them.

Work Carried Out By Scouts Reviewed For Camp's Board

A report on accomplishments of the 200 Boy Scouts attending the work weekend at the Beaver Creek United Presbyterian Church Camp highlighted the Saturday planning meeting of the trustees.

In his report, Charles Findling of Youngstown, told the 14 present that the Scouts had cleared brush, trimmed trees, washed windows and painted and erected a new steel flagpole, among other projects. Findling also announced that he would have new operations manuals mimeographed prior to the next meeting June 7 at 1 p.m. at the camp.

A report was given on the distribution of promotional and advertising material for the camp to churches in the Steubenville and Mahoning Presbyteries by Mrs. Phyllis Conley of East Liverpool, secretary.

It was pointed out by the Rev. John Bryer of Wellsville "that a drastic need exists" for male councilors and a director for the summer camp sessions.

The Rev. Richard Shipley, chairman of the program committee, discussed the Regional Camp Evaluation Conference in Rochester, Ind. "The purpose," he said, "was to analyze trends taking place in camping, with the most significant being ecumenical programming."

This year's foreign summer service student will be Bishop Konikkara Antony Paulson of India, a graduate of Princeton Seminary.

Copies of the proposed 1970 budget were distributed by the Rev. Richard Fruit of Lake Milton, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Marion Horger of East Liverpool was accepted.

Rev. Shipley offered opening prayer and the meeting was closed with prayer by the Rev. Charles L. Filker of East Palestine.

Robert Hummer, chairman, presided.

New Utah Law Permits Restaurant Liquor Sale

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A new law permitting the sale of liquor in restaurants goes into effect in Utah today, but it's not that simple.

The law allows the sale of minibottles at special state liquor stores inside restaurants which obtain licenses. A minibottle contains about two ounces.

The state has a monopoly on the retail sale of liquor and earned net profits of more than $3.4 million in the last six months.

Here are the major provisions of the minibottle law:

—Restaurants would have to sell the liquor for the same price they paid the state for it. Hence, they cannot make a profit on it.

—The liquor would have to be stored and sold in a separate room not visible to meal patrons.

—The patron would have to buy his own liquor and bring it to his own table.

—A waiter or waitress could bring an ice bucket and corkscrew to a customer with a bottle of wine, but could not place the wine in a bucket, open it, or serve it.

—And in order to qualify for the privilege of going through the process of buying the booze, opening the bottle and mixing his own drink the patron would have to order a meal.

Or if he wants to streamline the process, the drinker can take his own bottle of liquor to the restaurant and order setups, including glasses, ice and mixer.

The new law was passed by the 1969 legislature after a proposed constitutional amendment to permit legal sale of liquor by the drink was defeated soundly at the polls in November.

The law, drafted by the group that led the campaign against liquor by the drink, received the support of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon). The church is opposed to drinking and claims a majority of the state's population as members.

Supporters of the new law say it is designed to crack down on a number of private clubs which have for years been illegally selling liquor by the drink.

A group of fulltime state inspectors will begin work at the start of the next fiscal year in July. But many clubs seem unconcerned.

Most private clubs plan to continue operating as locker clubs, which means they can mix and serve liquor for customers.

Theoretically, every customer at a locker club has a bottle with his name on it in a special locker at the club. But in practice many clubs sell the liquor to the customer.

One more thing. The number of minibottle licenses will be limited to 75, but although the law is effective today not one restaurant has so far applied. They couldn't. The application forms haven't been printed yet.

On The TV Beat

The FBI's Zimbalist Turns Killer

By Cecil Smith

The television industry in Hollywood is watching closely the progress on a 90-minute television drama called "Kansas City, I Love you," starring Efrem Zimbalist Jr.

Cecil Smith

As for Zimbalist, he says: "I'm dying to see it. I haven't felt this way about anything I've done in years."

The play by Jerome Wish was taped entirely on location on the streets of Los Angeles under the direction of Zimbalist's boss on "The FBI," Philip Abbott.

IN IT, the lean and handsome Zimbalist, who has been chasing killers for a dozen years as the suave private eye of "77 Sunset Strip" and the intrepid agent of "The FBI," turns killer, playing a bumbling, would-be movie producer who inadvertently murders a deaf-mute girl.

Zimbalist says it is a story out of the very bones of Hollywood, "a case history of this town."

That it is also the most demanding part the actor has ever played before cameras is something he brushes aside — "Good parts play themselves," he said.

But two things about this project are immensely important to the future of television.

FIRST, IT'S an entirely independent production, made by famed theatrical producer Paul Gregory with no commitments, no prior agreements, the first in a projected series of dramas to be known as "The Paul Gregory Theater."

This is a vital step away from network control, and at first it was assumed the play would be sold in the growing syndication market, but now two networks are bidding for it.

Second, it is the severest test of tape production yet made. It has long been prophesied that tape would eventually replace film for motion pictures. It is cheaper. It has the advantage of instant replay wherein a director and cast can see immediately what the lens has caught rather than wait for film to be processed to see what it missed.

ZIMBALIST IS wildly enthusiastic about the technique — "It opens a whole new world in the quality of performance. You know what you have, you don't have to guess. Within the next few years, everything must come to tape."

Despite his close association with Abbott on "The FBI" and their warm friendship, Zimbalist was unaware of the project until Phil sent him a script. He immediately said: "Let's go." Not only did he love the part, but he has immense respect for Abbott as a director.

"He's one of the most sensitive and inventive directors I've ever worked with," said the actor. "I only hope he can direct some of our show next season."

EFREM is beginning his fifth season as the star of "The FBI," his 12th year as the star of a weekly series. He has no hangups about it, no bitter complaints about the limited range of series TV.

"They tell me," he said, "we're going to do the show nonviolently. How they expect to do a show about violence without violence seems idiotic to me and the best way to drive the audience away."

The son of the great violinist, Efrem Zimbalist Sr., and opera star Alma Gluck is dedicated thoroughly to his profession, an actor's actor, who believes screen-acting is a particularly demanding art "because of the challenge of the closeup."

He once produced three Menotti operas on Broadway ("The Medium," "The Telephone," "The Consul") but his interest now is solely in acting and achieving the highest quality possible in performance. With "Kansas City," he believes a new plane was reached.

And the industry waits to see.

Wooley Issues Warning

Law On Disabled Vehicles Covers Private Property

Planning a concerted drive for removal of disabled and junked autos during East Liverpool's annual "Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up" month, Housing and Zoning Inspector Marvin Wooley pointed out today that city ordinances ban storage of old vehicles on private propirty as well as on public streets.

Wooley said the police department has been asked to cooperate in a drive to force removal of "junkers" and other disabled vehicles as a way of brightening East Liverpool's aspect.

He cited Section 1127.02 (d) of the housing and zoning code, which covers parking of disabled vehicles in a residential district. The code provides that the limit is two weeks "except that such vehicles may be stored in an enclosed garage or other accessory building and provided that no business should be conducted in connection therewith while such vehicles is parked or stored."

Wooley pointed out there are many cases where obviously unused cars are allowed to stand on lawns or vacant lots and in driveways.

The inspector also cited sections of the Code on "health, safety and sanitation," which cover parking of disabled vehicles.

The legislation prohibits storing junked cars or parts of autos anywhere in the city except on premises licensed as a scrap yard.

It provides that the safety-service director will give written notice of the alleged violation to the person on whose property the old auto or parts are noted.

If the junk is not removed or placed within an enclosure or building within 10 days after receipt of the notice, the way is open for the city to file criminal proceedings in Municipal Court.

The Code provides a maximum fine of $50 for the first offense and a fine of up to $500 for subsequent offenses. Each day the violation continues may be construed as a separate offense, it provides.

The FBI's Zimbalist Turns Killer

By Cecil Smith

The television industry in Hollywood is watching closely the progress on a 90-minute television drama called "Kansas City, I Love you," starring Efrem Zimbalist Jr.

Cecil Smith

As for Zimbalist, he says: "I'm dying to see it. I haven't felt this way about anything I've done in years."

The play by Jerome Wish was taped entirely on location on the streets of Los Angeles under the direction of Zimbalist's boss on "The FBI," Philip Abbott.

IN IT, the lean and handsome Zimbalist, who has been chasing killers for a dozen years as the suave private eye of "77 Sunset Strip" and the intrepid agent of "The FBI," turns killer, playing a bumbling, would-be movie producer who inadvertently murders a deaf-mute girl.

Zimbalist says it is a story out of the very bones of Hollywood, "a case history of this town."

That it is also the most demanding part the actor has ever played before cameras is something he brushes aside — "Good parts play themselves," he said.

But two things about this project are immensely important to the future of television.

FIRST, IT'S an entirely independent production, made by famed theatrical producer Paul Gregory with no commitments, no prior agreements, the first in a projected series of dramas to be known as "The Paul Gregory Theater."

This is a vital step away from network control, and at first it was assumed the play would be sold in the growing syndication market, but now two networks are bidding for it.

Second, it is the severest test of tape production yet made. It has long been prophesied that tape would eventually replace film for motion pictures. It is cheaper. It has the advantage of instant replay wherein a director and cast can see immediately what the lens has caught rather than wait for film to be processed to see what it missed.

ZIMBALIST IS wildly enthusiastic about the technique — "It opens a whole new world in the quality of performance. You know what you have, you don't have to guess. Within the next few years, everything must come to tape."

Despite his close association with Abbott on "The FBI" and their warm friendship, Zimbalist was unaware of the project until Phil sent him a script. He immediately said: "Let's go." Not only did he love the part, but he has immense respect for Abbott as a director.

"He's one of the most sensitive and inventive directors I've ever worked with," said the actor. "I only hope he can direct some of our show next season."

EFREM is beginning his fifth season as the star of "The FBI," his 12th year as the star of a weekly series. He has no hangups about it, no bitter complaints about the limited range of series TV.

"They tell me," he said, "we're going to do the show nonviolently. How they expect to do a show about violence without violence seems idiotic to me and the best way to drive the audience away."

The son of the great violinist, Efrem Zimbalist Sr., and opera star Alma Gluck is dedicated thoroughly to his profession, an actor's actor, who believes screen-acting is a particularly demanding art "because of the challenge of the closeup."

He once produced three Menotti operas on Broadway ("The Medium," "The Telephone," "The Consul") but his interest now is solely in acting and achieving the highest quality possible in performance. With "Kansas City," he believes a new plane was reached.

And the industry waits to see.

Wooley Issues Warning

Law On Disabled Vehicles Covers Private Property

Planning a concerted drive for removal of disabled and junked autos during East Liverpool's annual "Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up" month, Housing and Zoning Inspector Marvin Wooley pointed out today that city ordinances ban storage of old vehicles on private proprty as well as on public streets.

Wooley said the police department has been asked to cooperate in a drive to force removal of "junkers" and other disabled vehicles as a way of brightening East Liverpool's aspect.

He cited Section 1127.02 (d) of the housing and zoning code, which covers parking of disabled vehicles in a residential district. The code provides that the limit is two weeks "except that such vehicles may be stored in an enclosed garage or other accessory building and provided that no business should be conducted in connection therewith while such vehicles is parked or stored."

Wooley pointed out there are many cases where obviously unused cars are allowed to stand on lawns or vacant lots and in driveways.

The inspector also cited sections of the Code on "health, safety and sanitation," which cover parking of disabled vehicles.

The legislation prohibits storing junked cars or parts of autos anywhere in the city except on premises licensed as a scrap yard.

It provides that the safety-service director will give written notice of the alleged violation to the person on whose property the old auto or parts are noted.

If the junk is not removed or placed within an enclosure or building within 10 days after receipt of the notice, the way is open for the city to file criminal proceedings in Municipal Court.

The Code provides a maximum fine of $50 for the first offense and a fine of up to $500 for subsequent offenses. Each day the violation continues may be construed as a separate offense, it provides.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Good Gravy, Coffee?

DEAR GRAVY LOVERS: We're always looking for something new when it comes to making tangy gravy for pot roast, chicken or pork chops . . . aren't we?

Heloise

Well, take a deep breath and listen to this.

I had some leftover cold roast beef the other day and sliced it into thin slices. Not having any gravy leftover, I put some water in a pan, added a few dashes of Worcestershire Sauce, a bit of the dark brown liquid that comes in a little bottle and is used to flavor gravy, and brought it to a boil. Then I put in my leftover roast beef and let this boil a few minutes.

I needtd some thickening and instead of using the regular old cornstarch or flour, that light in my belfry turned on all of a sudden . . .

I dumped two spoons of flour in a cup and before holding it under the cold water faucet to make the thickening, I thought to myself, why not mix a spoonful of instant coffee in this before adding the water and see what I get.

And you know what — I got a delicious coffee gravy that was out of this world!

So gals, next time you make gravy, do try it. But be sure to mix your instant coffee with your flour BEFORE adding the water and making a paste.

MMM, Mmm— good.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My grandmother saves all her old nylon stockings and uses them to store onions in.

She drops an onion in the toe, ties a knot, puts in another, ties a knot and so on until the stocking is full.

Then she hangs the stockings on hooks in her garage and cuts off onions from the bottom as needed.

This prevents rotting or sprouting for a long, long time.

MRS. WARREN TENNEY.

This is a great idea for those of you who are planting a garden and wish to store some of those nice onions you raise. Happy gardening to you all!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For bachelors, bachelor girls and couples who are forever throwing dried bread away:

Save the bread bag from your last loaf.

Three Fund Requests Given Lisbon Council

LISBON — Mayor Clyde B. Pike referred to council's finance committee Monday night three requests for funds. He asked for a report at the next meeting May 26 on:

A raise from $99.90 to $175 per month for Guy Hurd, parking meter collector and maintenanceman;

A salary increase of $300 for Pool Manager Barry James, who last summer received $600 for the 13-week season, and

Approximately $1,250 to buy a 1963 four-wheel drive jeep and $1,460 to buy a 200-gallon high pressure firefighting unit to mount on the jeep for grass and automobile blazes.

—:—

THE MAYOR spoke on Hurd's behalf and, along with Chief of Police Leon T. Zahrndt and Street Commissioner Thirl Flugan, said Hurd is doing an excellent job on the meters.

Charles Webber, Council's representative on the Park Commission, said the pool was well operated last season and the pay should be raised to continue to keep a responsible manager.

Fire Chief W. A. Peters said the four-wheel drive vehicle with tank and 500-pound pressure pump would be invaluable for fighting grass and brush fires. Webber, chairman of Council's fire committee, favors buying the equipment.

Fremen suggested that the village ambulance, out of service since last fall, could be sold or traded in to reduce the cash outlay. Mayor Pike asked Council's property committee to work with the finance committee on that angle.

Clerk - Treasurer John Ebert reported he has not received a report from the American LaFrance Co. on an inspection of the 28-year-old fire truck six weeks ago.

It was last summer that Chief Peters told Council the truck is beyond repair and should be replaced. Council decided to have a company mechanic check it and advise what should be done.

—:—

COUNCIL last night also:

Approved the appointment of John P. Wargo of 344 E. Chestnut St., Columbiana County recorder, as a member of the volunteer fire department;

Entered into an agreement with the county commissioners to pay $277.50 and furnish aggregate for resurfacing Thomas Rd. and Sunset Dr. next summer when the County Highway Department will do the work and furnish the asphaltic material;

Hired Jesse Dilling on Flugan's recommendation as a street department worker at $2 per hour for a 30-day probationary period;

Under suspension of rules, adopted an emergency ordinance to stop people from putting household litter and garbage in litter cans in the business district subject to a fine of from $10 to $50 for each offense, and

Gave second readings to ordinances granting raises to the street department crew and commissioner, retroactive to May 1, and prohibiting extension of water and sewer lines beyond the village limits.

Mayor Pike and Flugan reported that the Chester Hoist Division of the National Screw & Mfg. Co. donated a two-ton hoist to the village. The administration sent thanks to Ed Kauffman, superintendent of the Hoist plant on the Salem Rd.

Council took under consideration Flugan's request for permission to place a mobile home for his own use on the village garage property.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Good Gravy, Coffee?

DEAR GRAVY LOVERS: We're always looking for something new when it comes to making tangy gravy for pot roast, chicken or pork chops . . aren't we?

Heloise

Well, take a deep breath and listen to this.

I had some leftover cold roast beef the other day and sliced it into thin slices. Not having any gravy leftover, I put some water in a pan, added a few dashes of Worcestershire Sauce, a bit of the dark brown liquid that comes in a little bottle and is used to flavor gravy, and brought it to a boil. Then I put in my leftover roast beef and let this boil a few minutes.

I needitd some thickening and instead of using the regular old cornstarch or flour, that light in my belfry turned on all of a sudden . . .

I dumped two spoons of flour in a cup and before holding it under the cold water faucet to make the thickening, I thought to myself, why not mix a spoonful of instant coffee in this before adding the water and see what I get.

And you know what — I got a delicious coffee gravy that was out of this world!

So gals, next time you make gravy, do try it. But be sure to mix your instant coffee with your flour BEFORE adding the water and making a paste.

MMM, Mmm— good.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My grandmother saves all her old nylon stockings and uses them to store onions in.

She drops an onion in the toe, ties a knot, puts in another, ties a knot and so on until the stocking is full.

Then she hangs the stockings on hooks in her garage and cuts off onions from the bottom as needed.

This prevents rotting or sprouting for a long, long time.

MRS. WARREN TENNEY.

This is a great idea for those of you who are planting a garden and wish to store some of those nice onions you raise. Happy gardening to you all!

Tigers Win Buckeye Border Track, Set Four Records

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

Hawkins is suing the NBA for $6,000,000 on various premises. Hawkins was banned from playing in the NBA because he was involved in the point-shaving scandals of 1961. At that time Hawkins, an All-American high school player at Brooklyn's Boys High, was a freshman at the University of Iowa. He was dropped from school and, as a 19-year-old, starred for the Pittsburgh Rens in the short-lived American Basketball League. Hawkins then played with the Harlem Globetrotters until the American Basketball Association was formed in 1967. He was named the league's MVP and led the Pittsburgh Pipers to the ABA title. The franchise shifted to Minnesota and finished poorly this season as Hawkins was hampered by injuries.

The "Life" article contends that Hawkins was innocent in his association with fixer Jack Molinas and that underhanded police methods were used to make Hawkins "confess". The article also charges the NBA is inconsistent toward tainted players.

NICK WEATHERSPOON of Canton McKinley has been named the VFW District 6 outstanding senior high athlete of the year. Weatherspoon was the AP Class AA basketball "Player of the year". "The Spoon," as he is known, is now eligible for the state VFW award won by East Liverpool's Mike McVay last year.

DAN FRASIER, a former coach at South Side Beaver High, has been named the new head football coach at Geneva College. Frasier, an assistant the past three years, replaces Joe Banks, who resigned. Frasier is a 1964 graduate of Geneva.

EAST LIVERPOOL'S Bernie Allen, starting to play regularly for the Washington Senators, is listed fourth in the league in batting with a .333 average on 19 hits for 57 at bats. Rod Carew, Rico Petrocelli and Frank Robinson are ahead of Allen among players with 50 at bats or more.

DICK PANNETT of Weirton, who has been an assistant basketball coach at Mingo, has been named to succeed Lee Patrone, who resigned, as basketball coach at Wintersville High.

Jim Bowersock Lowers 2 Marks

Wellsville won the Buckeye Border Conference track meet at Stanton last night, setting four new records in the process.

Beaver Local's Jim Bowersock set two new records as he won the 220 and 440. Adams of Jefferson Union was the only other double winner.

Ken Kornbau of Wellsville lowered his own two-mile record from 10:38.9 to 10:08.7. Lehman Pearson long jumped 20-9¾ to eclipse the record of 20-5 set by Laydon of Wellsville in 1962. The 880 relay team of Paul Martin, Pearson, Sherrill Jackson and Bill Carter turned in a 1:35.8, knocking two seconds off the 1962 standard set by Wellsville, and the mile relay team of Herman Moxley, Jackson, Selmar Dorsey and Rick Ross, whose victory clinched the meet for the Tigers, did 3:38.9, bettering the 3:41.5 mark of Jefferson Union in 1966.

Bowersock did a :23.9 220 and a :51.8 440. Perry Stone of Carrollton had done :24.0 and :53.0 for new records last year. Adams did :21.4 in the low hurdles to shave four-tenths of a second off the mark set by Fisher of Toronto in 1966. John Pope of Toronto hurled the discus 142 feet, bettering the 137-3½ mark set in 1966 by Siebert of Jefferson Union and Evanoski of Springfield turned in a 4:47 mile, bettering the 4:50.5 run by Leonard of Toronto in 1962, for other new records.

Brawl-Filled Game To Pilots

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

After two weeks in headlong retreat, the New York Yankees have stopped running and started fighting back—from a horizontal position.

The powder puff Yankees, floored by a seven-run Seattle salvo in the first inning Monday night, countered with a flurry of elbows, fists and body blocks before bowing to the Pilots 8-4 for their 13th loss in the last 15 games.

Bobby Murcer, one of the few Yanks who hasn't lost his punch, socked a two-run homer in the first inning and decked Seattle shortstop Ray Oyler with a rolling slide in the third, touching off a mass melee at second base.

Embattled Manager Ralph Houk shoved an umpire after the brawl was over and got himself tossed out of the game along with Murcer and Oyler.

Relief pitcher Fred Talbot drew a warning from Umpire John Rice for knocking down Seattle hurler Marty Pattin in the bottom of the third and catcher Frank Fernandez almost triggered another donnybrook in the fourth by bowling over Pilots' receiver Gerry McNertney on a play at the plate.

While the Yanks and Pilots battled at Seattle, the California Angels scraped past Washington 3-2 at Anaheim in the only other game on the American League schedule.

Tommy Davis' three-run double off Al Downing, who had walked the first three batters he faced, keyed Seattle's first inning spree. Jose Vidal's triple and singles by Pattin and Tommy Harper helped the Pilots rake reliever Mike Kekich for four more runs and a 7-2 lead.

Murcer, whose ninth homer sent the Yanks ahead before the deluge, came up again in the third and was brushed back by a Pattin pitch. He then singled to right and tried to stretch the hit, bowling over Oyler at second base. Oyler made the tag and then came up swining. Murcer fought back and both benches emptied.

'He came in throwing an elbow," Oyler said after the game. "That's no way to play baseball."

"I had no intention of starting anything," Murcer said. "He jumped me, then I jumped him. Then everybody was on top of both of us. I don't think anyone really got hit, and I don't think there's any hard feeling now."

After the scuffle broke up, Houk stood toe-to-toe with umpire Russ Goetz and argued that Oyler had dropped the ball in the collision at second. Goetz thumbed him out and Rice, the senior umpire, had to step between them before escorting Houk to the dugout.

Talbot low-bridged Pattin with two out in the Pilots' third, drawing a warning from Rice, and when Fernandez piled into McNertney in a futile attempt to score in the fourth, players streamed off both benches again.

But no punches were thrown and there were no further incidents as Pattin breezed to his fifth victory against one loss and the Yanks stumbled to their fifth straight setback.

Jay Johnstone drove in one run with a sacrifice fly and set up another with one of his two doubles, leading the Angels past the Senators, who have dropped six in a row.

Bob Gibson had a perfect game, but he won't go down on the list with Don Larsen, Jim Bunning and Sandy Koufax.

The St. Louis ace collected three singles and a walk in four times at bat Monday night as the Cardinals defeated Los Angeles 6-2.

In the only other National League games, Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 4-3 and Chicago topped San Diego 2-0. In the American League, Seattle drubbed the New York Yankees 8-4 and California shaded Washington 3-2.

"I've had four hits in a game before, but I don't think I ever had a perfect night," Gibson said. "I should remember something like that, but I don't."

The 33-year-old right-handed hitter, who has hit one home run in each of the last two World Series, started his perfect game with a single in the third.

In the fourth, Claude Osteen intentionally walked Steve Huntz with two out, loading the bases, and Gibson followed with a two-run single, increasing the Cardinals' lead to 3-0.

The pitcher led off the seventh with a single and scored, then walked in the eighth and stole second.

"Anytime they play behind me, I'm going to run," said Gibson, referring to the first baseman Ron Fairly's playing off the bag. "I don't believe in that stuff about being four runs ahead and you play nice. Four runs isn't that much of a lead."

It was for him, though, as he scattered seven hits for his fourth victory against two defeats. He also tied a major league record in the seventh inning when he struck out three Dodgers on nine pitches.

The Pirates rallied for two runs in the seventh, tying the Giants 3-3, then won in the ninth on Al Oliver's run-scoring single.

"We don't get paid for extra innings, and I don't like them," said the rookie, whose hit drove in Richie Hebner.

Also a rookie, Hebner had four hits in the game, including a run-scoring triple in the seventh. He now is the second leading hitter in the league with a .392 average.

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a five-hitter and drove in the only run he needed against San Diego. The run came in the second inning as Jenkins grounded into a force play following singles by Randy Hundley and Al Spangler and a walk to Adolfo Phillips.

Football Realignment Seen Better For TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The pro football realignment for 1970 was a major step toward equalizing the television packages that Commissioner Pete Rozelle will try to peddle this summer.

The National Conference, including 13 of the current NFL teams, still will have the edge in top television markets with seven of the top 10. However, it shares two of them (New York and San Francisco-Oakland) with the new American Conference, which will be seen in five of the 10.

Of equal importance to the networks is the move of Cleveland and Baltimore into the AFL-oriented group because it provides midwest interest, which has been minimal, and also adds punch to the southern market where the Baltimore Colts once ruled the roost.

In other years, a Chicago Bear fan who was looking for a game to watch when the Bears were home and he was in the blacked out area, had little interest in most AFL offerings. Now he will be able to watch a Cleveland or Baltimore game, presumably on another network.

When Rozelle goes shopping for his new television contracts he will be asking for more money. The NFL gets $18 million a year. All contracts expire with the end of the 1969 season.

The television proceeds per club average about $800,000 to AFL teams and $1.2 million to NFL teams. To raise all clubs to he $1.2 million level, the new contract would have to call for an additional $4 million.

Presumably hte networks now holding the rights, NBC for the AFL and CBS for NFL, will be contacted by Rozelle before any other network is approached. The new Hughes Sports Network, formerly Sports Network, could be a dark horse contender.

The new alignment will find the Natoinal Conference of the NFL with these top television markets: 1, New York. 2, Los Angeles. 3, Chicago. 4, Philadelphia. 6, Detroit. 7, San Francisco-Oakland. And 10, Washington.

Hawkins is suing the NBA for $6,000,000 on various premises. Hawkins was banned from playing in the NBA because he was involved in the point-shaving scandals of 1961. At that time Hawkins, an All-American high school player at Brooklyn's Boys High, was a freshman at the University of Iowa. He was dropped from school and, as a 19-year-old, starred for the Pittsburgh Rens in the short-lived American Basketball League. Hawkins then played with the Harlem Globetrotters until the American Basketball Association was formed in 1967. He was named the league's MVP and led the Pittsburgh Pipers to the ABA title. The franchise shifted to Minnesota and finished poorly this season as Hawkins was hampered by injuries.

The "Life" article contends that Hawkins was innocent in his association with fixer Jack Molinas and that underhanded police methods were used to make Hawkins "confess". The article also charges the NBA is inconsistent toward tainted players.

NICK WEATHERSPOON of Canton McKinley has been named the VFW District 6 outstanding senior high athlete of the year. Weatherspoon was the AP Class AA basketball "Player of the year". "The Spoon," as he is known, is now eligible for the state VFW award won by East Liverpool's Mike McVay last year.

DAN FRASIER, a former coach at South Side Beaver High, has been named the new head football coach at Geneva College. Frasier, an assistant the past three years, replaces Joe Banks, who resigned. Frasier is a 1964 graduate of Geneva.

EAST LIVERPOOL'S Bernie Allen, starting to play regularly for the Washington Senators, is listed fourth in the league in batting with a .333 average on 19 hits for 57 at bats. Rod Carew, Rico Petrocelli and Frank Robinson are ahead of Allen among players with 50 at bats or more.

DICK PANNETT of Weirton, who has been an assistant basketball coach at Mingo, has been named to succeed Lee Patrone, who resigned, as basketball coach at Wintersville High.

Brawl-Filled Game To Pilots

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

After two weeks in headlong retreat, the New York Yankees have stopped running and started fighting back—from a horizontal position.

The powder puff Yankees, floored by a seven-run Seattle salvo in the first inning Monday night, countered with a flurry of elbows, fists and body blocks before bowing to the Pilots 8-4 for their 13th loss in the last 15 games.

Bobby Murcer, one of the few Yanks who hasn't lost his punch, socked a two-run homer in the first inning and decked Seattle shortstop Ray Oyler with a rolling slide in the third, touching off a mass melee at second base.

Embattled Manager Ralph Houk shoved an umpire after the brawl was over and got himself tossed out of the game along with Murcer and Oyler.

Relief pitcher Fred Talbot drew a warning from Umpire John Rice for knocking down Seattle hurler Marty Pattin in the bottom of the third and catcher Frank Fernandez almost triggered another donnybrook in the fourth by bowling over Pilots' receiver Gerry McNertney on a play at the plate.

While the Yanks and Pilots battled at Seattle, the California Angels scraped past Washington 3-2 at Anaheim in the only other game on the American League schedule.

Tommy Davis' three-run double off Al Downing, who had walked the first three batters he faced, keyed Seattle's first inning spree. Jose Vidal's triple and singles by Pattin and Tommy Harper helped the Pilots rake reliever Mike Kekich for four more runs and a 7-2 lead.

Murcer, whose ninth homer sent the Yanks ahead before the deluge, came up again in the third and was brushed back by a Pattin pitch. He then singled to right and tried to stretch the hit, bowling over Oyler at second base. Oyler made the tag and then came up swining. Murcer fought back and both benches emptied.

'He came in throwing an elbow," Oyler said after the game. "That's no way to play baseball."

"I had no intention of starting anything," Murcer said. "He jumped me, then I jumped him. Then everybody was on top of both of us. I don't think anyone really got hit, and I don't think there's any hard feeling now."

After the scuffle broke up, Houk stood toe-to-toe with umpire Russ Goetz and argued that Oyler had dropped the ball in the collision at second. Goetz thumbed him out and Rice, the senior umpire, had to step between them before escorting Houk to the dugout.

Talbot low-bridged Pattin with two out in the Pilots' third, drawing a warning from Rice, and when Fernandez piled into McNertney in a futile attempt to score in the fourth, players streamed off both benches again.

But no punches were thrown and there were no further incidents as Pattin breezed to his fifth victory against one loss and the Yanks stumbled to their fifth straight setback.

Jay Johnstone drove in one run with a sacrifice fly and set up another with one of his two doubles, leading the Angels past the Senators, who have dropped six in a row.

Decision Unanimous

Griffith Beats Hayward, Eyes Benvenuti Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — "Good fight, Emile," said middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy.

"You'll fight me, Nino?" asked Emile Griffith.

"Sure," replied Benvenuti.

So it looks like a fourth middleweight title fight is in the works between the two arch-rivals, probably for September in New York although nothing is on paper today.

Griffth earned the shot by coming from behind to beat cut-prone Stan "Kitten" Hayward of Philadelphia on a decisive, unanimous 12-round decision at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

Hayward, who had outpointed Griffith in Philadelphia last Oct. 29, had rocked the former welterweight and middleweight champion with a stunning right to the jaw in the fourth round and was outboxing the grim New Yorker at this stage.

But when the wide cut on the Kitten's left eyebrow was opened in the fifth and blood streamed from the gash, Griffith took charge and dominated the fight from then on.

Referee Arthur Mercante and judge Tony Castellano each had Griffith the winner in rounds 8-4 while judge Johnny Dran had ti 9-3 for Griffith. The Associated Press card had Griffith in front 8-4.

"It was Griffith all the way," said Benvenuti, who took the title from Emile a second time here 14 months ago. "He would have won even if Hayward was not cut. Griffith looked slower but stronger since I fought him."

Griffith bored in to work over Hayward's body and to prevent him from getting too much punching room.

"I couldn't get set for more than one punch the way he worked," said Hayward. "Then when I was cut, I couldn't see out of the eye for several rounds. I think I'll have an operation to get the scar tissue removed."

Benvenuti came down from his training camp at Grossinger, N.Y., to watch the fight. The handsome Italian is training for a nontitle 10-rounder at the Garden May 26 with Dick Tiger, the former middleweight and light heavyweight champion from Biafra.

Hayward weighed the agreed limit of 161 pounds after sweating off 1½pounds within two hours after the first weighin. Griffith weighed 155.

Longdon Says Prince Ready For Preakness

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer Johnny Longden can't get any information straight from his horse's mouth. But he picks up valuable tips sitting on the back of Majestic Princt.

"I guess I have a little edge by working my own horse," Longden said of the Kentucky Derby winner who goes after his second leg of the Triple Crown in Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

"By exercising my horse, I can tell by his actions when something is bothering him," said the former jockey, who won a record 6,032 races. "Then I can use my own judgment instead of relying on someone else. I get my information first hand, because I'm always there."

Longnen recalls Majestic Prince once acted a bit sluggish during a workout at Santa Anita and a subsequent check showed he had a temperature of 102 degrees.

Right now, Longden reports Majestic Prince is coming up to the 1 3-16-mile Preakness in fine shape, but the trainer still appears to be on the defensive about his nnbeaten 3-year-old colt.

Before Majestic Prince scored a neck victory over Arts and Letters in the Derby, some detractors claimed the California campaigner hadn't beaten much in his first seven starts. Since the Derby, Longden has been told repeatedly the Preakness field should be tougher.

While attending Majestic Prince at Pimlico's stakes barn, Longden was asked if he thought the Preakness field would be harder to beat.

"What do you mean by that?" he said, obviously a bit miffed.

Later, while discussing probable Preakness starters he had not seen race, Longden suddenly interjected: "They tell me the top three-year-olds ran in the Derby."

Arts and Letters and Top Knight, fifth-place finisher in the Derby, will be back for another crack at Majestic Prince. Both Longden and Ray Metcalf, the trainer of Top Knight, think the top 2-year-old of 1968 will turn in a better performance this time.

"I expect him to do better," Longden said, "but he ran a good race in the Derby."

"I think you'll see a different horse," Metcalf said. "The track in Kentucky was harder than he likes. This track has more cushion."

Longden says he knows little about the other Preakness starters—Jay Ray, Captain Action, Al Hattab, Greengrass Greene and Glad's Flame—although he saw Glad's Flame on Saturday not long before the Preakness.

"I cant worry about the other horses," Longden said. "I just want to make sure my horse is ready. Even then, I can't run the race for him. He'll have to do it himself."

Paul Brown Happy With Realignment

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach-General Manager Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals hails professional football's realignment for 1970 as "better than I could hope for."

Cincinnati and Houston of the American Football League and Cleveland and Pittsburgh of the National Football league will comprise one of three divisions.

"I have fulfilled one ambition I had here—to bring National League Football into Cincinnati," Brown said. "It is a tremendous step in behalf of the Cincinnati franchise."

Brown, who built an NFL dynasty in Cleveland, pointed out that the Bengals will play seven games with NFL teams the first year, eight the next year and then alternate the number of contests every years.

Stressing geographical benefits of the set up, Brown said that "There is bound to be a natural rivalry particularly as to Cleveland and Pittsburgh, and we'll have the advantage of warmer weather and the domed stadium in Houston."

Both Cincinnati and Pittsburgh have new stadiums slated for completion in 1970.

The Bengals mentor also said that he thinks the realignment shows that "owners have recognized there is nothing to choose between the two leagues as to quality."

Gibson Goal Gratified

One of those shots came as the buzzer sounded and gave New Mexico its second victory in four days over the Aggies.

Hawk Flying Low, Average Down To .198

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hopes that Ken Harrelson would lift the Cleveland Indians out of their slump have not been fulfilled as he tries to break out of a slump of his own.

The Indians had only one victory in nine games in their worst start in years when they acquired the 1967 American League runs batted in champion from the Boston Red Sox in a six-player swap April 19.

Acquisition of the Boston slugger caused a surge of hope in the breast of many a Cleveland fan, and Manager Alvin Dark stated that Harrelson is the kind of guy who "can take this team and turn it right around."

Sixeen games later the Indians have a 4-21 record for an incredible .160 average, and the Hawk is battling to climb out of a slump during which his batting average has dropped 41 points.

Harrelson came to the Indians with a .239 average and now it is down to .198. He has had seven hits, including one homer, and four runs batted in, in 45 at bats since donning a Cleveland uiform.

The Hawk says the team slump bothers him more than his own.

"If the team was winning, it wouldn't bother me," Harrelson said Monday night as the Indians, who were idle Monday, prepared to take off for Kansas City. "When they're losing . . . that makes it doubly hard to take.

"I'm working as hard as humanly possible to break out of the slump.

A club aide confirmed that Harrelson has been taking so much extra batting practice he developed blisters on his hands.

"He had to wear two batting gloves in a game the other day the blisters were so bad," publicist Ed Uhas reported.

"Maybe another week and I'll be out of it," Harrelson said hopefully.

Charges Against Guard In Student Death Dropped

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Clark County prosecutor James A. Berry has decided not to press charges against Wittenberg Univtrsity security guard who shot and killed a student outside a girls' dormitory.

John C. Lobach, 21, of Bethlehem, Pa., was shot by Chester Phillips, 48, early Saturday when he attempted to flee from the guard's custody.

Lobach and two friends had gone to the dormitory to try to see a girl friend. A coed spotted Lobach on a second floor ledge and alerted authorities.

Lobach's two friends left the scene as the security officers, Phillips and George Lytle, arrived. The officers ordered Lobach down from the ledge and he complied.

Then, while Lytle went into the dorm to call his superiors, Lobach jumped from the guards' car and ran.

Phillips said he called four times for Lobach to halt and then fired a shot into the air. The next time he fired, the bullet hit Lobach in the back.

Classes For Boys Set

Ohio St., Bowling Green Playing Summer Hockey

But at Ohio State and Bowling Green State University, the call will be for ice hockey.

The two schools, both equipped with their own ice rinks, will conduct their first summer hockey schools next month. Ohio State will run its classes for one week, from June 16-21, while Bowling Green has plans for a two-week session from June 15-28.

OSU Hockey Coach Harry Neale says increased interest in the sport prompted start of the school, which will be limited to the first 100 boys who register.

Ohio State and Bowling Green are among four colleges in Ohio that field hockey teams on a varsity basis. The others are Ohio University and Oberlin. Several other colleges have hockey on the club level.

At Ohio State, boys between six and 17 will be grouped according to age and hockey ability, Neale said. The student will receive three hours of intensified on-ice instruction daily, climaxed by a school ending game.

Most of the sessions will be devoted to improving the basic fundamentals of hockey—skating, shooting, passing and check. Lectures and film sessions will be used to augment ice instruction.

Neale, Canadian who has coached the Buckeye varsity the last three years, said he decided there was merit to the school after conducting a successful Saturday morning clinic for 50 boys.

After absorbing instruction, the kids got to show what they learned in a Sunday afternoon hockey league.

Assisting Neale on the instructional staff will be Dave Keon of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, Bill Harris, of the NHL's Pittsburgh Penguins, Moe Bartoli, former Columbus Checker coach and George Burke of the OSU Hockey coaching staff.

Bowling Green Coach Jack Vivian heads up the staff of the Falcons' school which also includes Bob Berry of the Cleveland Barons and Terry Slater, former Toledo Blades coach. The BG school is open to boys from 8 to 16 and costs $50 per week or $90 per week for those who want room and board. Tuition at Ohio State is $50 with the sessions running from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p.m.

Little League Opening Day On Saturday

The East Liverpool Little League will have opening day ceremonies Saturday at 4 p.m. at Thompson Park.

League play will get under way that day and all players are asked to report at 3:30.

American Legion Post 374 color guard will raise the flag and Ernest Lowe will sing the national anthem. Rev. Fred H. Lemasters of the Pennsylvania Ave. United Methodist Church will give the invocation and George Laneve will be m.c. Mayor George Willshaw will throw out the first ball.

League officials to be introduced are Commissioner Laird Christen, Vice Commissioner Fred Snowden Jr., Secretary Robert Johnson, Treasurer Lawrence Zollinger, National League President Robert Stanley, American League President Jay Roberts, National Minor League President Willis Standley, American Minor League President Edward Marker, Umpire in Chief Len Walker and trustees Donald Burbick, Walter Hanlon, Richard Forzano and Walker.

Decision Unanimous

Griffith Beats Hayward, Eyes Benvenuti Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — "Good fight, Emile," said middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy.

"You'll fight me, Nino?" asked Emile Griffith.

"Sure," replied Benvenuti.

So it looks like a fourth middleweight title fight is in the works between the two arch-rivals, probably for September in New York although nothing is on paper today.

Griffth earned the shot by coming from behind to beat cut-prone Stan "Kitten" Hayward of Philadelphia on a decisive, unanimous 12-round decision at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

Hayward, who had outpointed Griffith in Philadelphia last Oct. 29, had rocked the former welterweight and middleweight champion with a stunning right to the jaw in the fourth round and was outboxing the grim New Yorker at this stage.

But when the wide cut on the Kitten's left eyebrow was opened in the fifth and blood streamed from the gash, Griffith took charge and dominated the fight from then on.

Referee Arthur Mercante and judge Tony Castellano each had Griffith the winner in rounds 8-4 while judge Johnny Dran had ti 9-3 for Griffith. The Associated Press card had Griffith in front 8-4.

"It was Griffith all the way," said Benvenuti, who took the title from Emile a second time here 14 months ago. "He would have won even if Hayward was not cut. Griffith looked slower but stronger since I fought him."

Griffith bored in to work over Hayward's body and to prevent him from getting too much punching room.

"I couldn't get set for more than one punch the way he worked," said Hayward. "Then when I was cut, I couldn't see out of the eye for several rounds. I think I'll have an operation to get the scar tissue removed."

Benvenuti came down from his training camp at Grossinger, N.Y., to watch the fight. The handsome Italian is training for a nontitle 10-rounder at the Garden May 26 with Dick Tiger, the former middleweight and light heavyweight champion from Biafra.

Hayward weighed the agreed limit of 161 pounds after sweating off 1½pounds within two hours after the first weighin. Griffith weighed 155.

Hawk Flying Low, Average Down To .198

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hopes that Ken Harrelson would lift the Cleveland Indians out of their slump have not been fulfilled as he tries to break out of a slump of his own.

The Indians had only one victory in nine games in their worst start in years when they acquired the 1967 American League runs batted in champion from the Boston Red Sox in a six-player swap April 19.

Acquisition of the Boston slugger caused a surge of hope in the breast of many a Cleveland fan, and Manager Alvin Dark stated that Harrelson is the kind of guy who "can take this team and turn it right around."

Sixeen games later the Indians have a 4-21 record for an incredible .160 average, and the Hawk is battling to climb out of a slump during which his batting average has dropped 41 points.

Harrelson came to the Indians with a .239 average and now it is down to .198. He has had seven hits, including one homer, and four runs batted in, in 45 at bats since donning a Cleveland uiform.

The Hawk says the team slump bothers him more than his own.

"If the team was winning, it wouldn't bother me," Harrelson said Monday night as the Indians, who were idle Monday, prepared to take off for Kansas City. "When they're losing . . . that makes it doubly hard to take.

"I'm working as hard as humanly possible to break out of the slump.

A club aide confirmed that Harrelson has been taking so much extra batting practice he developed blisters on his hands.

"He had to wear two batting gloves in a game the other day the blisters were so bad," publicist Ed Uhas reported.

"Maybe another week and I'll be out of it," Harrelson said hopefully.

Longdon Says Prince Ready For Preakness

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer Johnny Longden can't get any information straight from his horse's mouth. But he picks up valuable tips sitting on the back of Majestic Princt.

"I guess I have a little edge by working my own horse," Longden said of the Kentucky Derby winner who goes after his second leg of the Triple Crown in Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

"By exercising my horse, I can tell by his actions when something is bothering him," said the former jockey, who won a record 6,032 races. "Then I can use my own judgment instead of relying on someone else. I get my information first hand, because I'm always there."

Longnen recalls Majestic Prince once acted a bit sluggish during a workout at Santa Anita and a subsequent check showed he had a temperature of 102 degrees.

Right now, Longden reports Majestic Prince is coming up to the 1 3-16-mile Preakness in fine shape, but the trainer still appears to be on the defensive about his unbeaten 3-year-old colt.

Before Majestic Prince scored a neck victory over Arts and Letters in the Derby, some detractors claimed the California campaigner hadn't beaten much in his first seven starts. Since the Derby, Longden has been told repeatedly the Preakness field should be tougher.

While attending Majestic Prince at Pimlico's stakes barn, Longden was asked if he thought the Preakness field would be harder to beat.

"What do you mean by that?" he said, obviously a bit miffed.

Later, while discussing probable Preakness starters he had not seen race, Longden suddenly interjected: "They tell me the top three-year-olds ran in the Derby."

Arts and Letters and Top Knight, fifth-place finisher in the Derby, will be back for another crack at Majestic Prince. Both Longden and Ray Metcalf, the trainer of Top Knight, think the top 2-year-old of 1968 will turn in a better performance this time.

"I expect him to do better," Longden said, "but he ran a good race in the Derby."

"I think you'll see a different horse," Metcalf said. "The track in Kentucky was harder than he likes. This track has more cushion."

Longden says he knows little about the other Preakness starters—Jay Ray, Captain Action, Al Hattab, Greengrass Greene and Glad's Flame—although he saw Glad's Flame on Saturday not long before the Preakness.

"I cant worry about the other horses," Longden said. "I just want to make sure my horse is ready. Even then, I can't run the race for him. He'll have to do it himself."

Classes For Boys Set

Ohio St., Bowling Green Playing Summer Hockey

But at Ohio State and Bowling Green State University, the call will be for ice hockey.

The two schools, both equipped with their own ice rinks, will conduct their first summer hockey schools next month. Ohio State will run its classes for one week, from June 16-21, while Bowling Green has plans for a two-week session from June 15-28.

OSU Hockey Coach Harry Neale says increased interest in the sport prompted start of the school, which will be limited to the first 100 boys who register.

Ohio State and Bowling Green are among four colleges in Ohio that field hockey teams on a varsity basis. The others are Ohio University and Oberlin. Several other colleges have hockey on the club level.

At Ohio State, boys between six and 17 will be grouped according to age and hockey ability, Neale said. The student will receive three hours of intensified on-ice instruction daily, climaxed by a school ending game.

Most of the sessions will be devoted to improving the basic fundamentals of hockey—skating, shooting, passing and check. Lectures and film sessions will be used to augment ice instruction.

Neale, Canadian who has coached the Buckeye varsity the last three years, said he decided there was merit to the school after conducting a successful Saturday morning clinic for 50 boys.

Assisting Neale on the instructional staff will be Dave Keon of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, Bill Harris, of the NHL's Pittsburgh Penguins, Moe Bartoli, former Columbus Checker coach and George Burke of the OSU Hockey coaching staff.

Bowling Green Coach Jack Vivian heads up the staff of the Falcons' school which also includes Bob Berry of the Cleveland Barons and Terry Slater, former Toledo Blades coach. The BG school is open to boys from 8 to 16 and costs $50 per week or $90 per week for those who want room and board. Tuition at Ohio State is $50 with the sessions running from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p.m.

Bob Brown To Rams, Cross Returns To Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bob Brown now is a happy man, which means there'll be plenty of unhappiness for the Los Angeles Rams' opposition. "I'm so ecstatic I can hardly find words to describe my feelings . . . I just feel great," the 27-year-old All-National Football League offensive tackle said Monday after the Philadelphia Eagles traded him to the Rams in a five-player deal.

Along with the 6-foot-4, 295-pound lineman, often called the best in the business, the Eagles sent cornerback Jim Nettles to the Rams in return for tackle Joe Carollo, guard Don Chuy and defensive back Irv Cross.

The Eagles reacted quickly after Brown told them Monday morning he wanted to be traded. He had given General Manager Pete Retzlaff a trade-me-or-else ultimatum.

Brown said his refusal to play a sixth season with the Eagles was "personal", but he wouldn't elaborate.

"I have no intentin of airing my grievances," Brown told newsmen after talking to Retzlaff, a former teammate. "I want to leave without recriminations, just as quietly as possible."

Reitzlaff said he was "very pleased with the trade . . . and I guess Bob is."

In Los Angeles, Coach George Allen of the Rams expressed complete satisfaction in the deal.

Brown was the Eagles' No. 1 draft choice in 1964. He signed for a reported $100,000 bonus out of Nebraska, where he was an All-American. He was the NFL's Rookie of the Year in 1964, was All-NFL in 1955 and 1956 and played in the Pro Bowl in 1966 and 1967.

In Carollo and Chuy, the Eagles get a pair of sturdy veterans. Cross is an ex-Eagle being considered for an assistant coaching job with the team.

Carollo, 28, 6-foot-2 and 225 pounds, came to the Rams as a second draft choice from Notre Dame in 1962. He has not missed a game in seven years at Los Angeles.

Chuy, 27, 6-1, and 225, from Clemson, also is in his eighth NFL year. He was hampered by injuries in 1966-67.

Nettles, from Clemson, 5-10, 177, has been in the NFL four years. He played out his option last season with the Eagles.

Paul Brown Happy With Realignment

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach-General Manager Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals hails professional football's realignment for 1970 as "better than I could hope for."

Cincinnati and Houston of the American Football League and Cleveland and Pittsburgh of the National Football league will comprise one of three divisions.

"I have fulfilled one ambition I had here—to bring National League Football into Cincinnati," Brown said. "It is a tremendous step in behalf of the Cincinnati franchise."

Brown, who built an NFL dynasty in Cleveland, pointed out that the Bengals will play seven games with NFL teams the first year, eight the next year and then alternate the number of contests every years.

Stressing geographical benefits of the set up, Brown said that "There is bound to be a natural rivalry particularly as to Cleveland and Pittsburgh, and we'll have the advantage of warmer weather and the domed stadium in Houston."

Both Cincinnati and Pittsburgh have new stadiums slated for completion in 1970.

The Bengals mentor also said that he thinks the realignment shows that "owners have recognized there is nothing to choose between the two leagues as to quality."

Charges Against Guard In Student Death Dropped

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Clark County prosecutor James A. Berry has decided not to press charges against Wittenberg Univtrsity security guard who shot and killed a student outside a girls' dormitory.

John C. Lobach, 21, of Bethlehem, Pa., was shot by Chester Phillips, 48, early Saturday when he attempted to flee from the guard's custody.

Lobach and two friends had gone to the dormitory to try to see a girl friend. A coed spotted Lobach on a second floor ledge and alerted authorities.

Lobach's two friends left the scene as the security officers, Phillips and George Lytle, arrived. The officers ordered Lobach down from the ledge and he complied.

Then, while Lytle went into the dorm to call his superiors, Lobach jumped from the guards' car and ran.

Phillips said he called four times for Lobach to halt and then fired a shot into the air. The next time he fired, the bullet hit Lobach in the back.

MOTORIZED FIRE EXTINGUISHER may prove ideal for highway fire protection because of its great speed and maneuverability. Unveiled recently at Marinette, Wis., the Magnum X-2 was described as the "world's fastest fire truck." The experimental vehicle reportedly accelerates from 0 to 60 miles an hour in 11 seconds and attains speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour. Tanks containing its extinguishing agents are incorporated as parts of the frame.

Those Seeking To Abolish Draft

Laird Hits At Students Who Oppose ROTC Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon leaders say students clamoring for abolition of the draft are working against themselves in trying to destroy the college-based ROTC program at the same time.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says campus demonstrators ought to recognize ROTC is one of the big building blocks in the Nixon administration program to end the draft and establish a basically volunteer military force.

"Some of the very people that are trying to keep us off the college campuses are the same people that are the most vehement in their criticism of the present draft," Laird tells reporters. "Now, you can't have it both ways, gentlemen.

"We have to be able to carry on recruiting and try to attract the most competent young people that we possibly can to military service. You can't do it, and you can't move toward volunteer forces if you are prohibited from going on college campuses."

The Pentagon is struggling to modify ROTC to make it acceptable to schools where faculty members as well as students have criticized the program.

Defense officials are prepared to give way on some details such as course composition, instructors and work loads. But they do not intend to alter the program's basic feature: military training concurrent with civilian academic life.

Laird's new manpower chief, Roger T. Kelley, says each university with problems over ROTC must decide whether the program is compatible with its educational philosophy.

"The essence of ROTC is to provide a here-and-now blend of the civilian and academic with military training," Kelley says. "If the school says 'that isn't for us,' then that is a decision the school must make, and they should have an orderly retreat."

Last year ROTC produced 21,426 officers, a record for one year. The program has turned out well over a quarter of a million officers since its inception in the 19th century.

One-third of the Army's generals rose through the ranks from ROTC beginnings.

In the Navy, one-half of the officers from the level just below flag to lieutenant are ROTC products. Half the current production of officers in the Army and Air Force in ROTC.

The Pentagon contends that despite well-publicized activities of student demonstrators in recent weeks there is no broad-based, nationwide opposition to ROTC. Officers insist the ROTC changes that are taking place merely reflect continuing efforts to modernize the curriculum and tailor ROTC needs of the 353 schools offering the course.

Somt administrators have told the Pentagon that ROTC work load on a student is becoming too much considering his regular academic burden. A four-year ROTC scholarship commits a young man to some 350 hours of military work.

Where possible the Pentagon has agreed to shift some of that work load from the regular school term to the summer months. Marching drills also may be reduced, but the Pentagon says it won't allow ROTC to be shunted aside like a forbidden or unwanted organization.

"If the reason for eliminating or reducing drill hours is simply to remove the visibility of the military organization, then we think that is a poor and invalid reason for considering a reduction in drill, Kelley says.

Kelley notes there is a waiting list of 335 schools that want ROTC units.

By dropping ROTC, Kelley says, a university denies students enrolled in the program their free choice of how to prepare for a military career. He calls this "a rather serious privation."

$340,000 In Native California

President Completes Deal On Summer White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has closed the deal for a $340,000 summer White House in his native California on a bluff commanding a view of the Pacific Ocean.

In making the announcement Monday, White House aides also listed the President's net worth at $596,900. This includes his interests in his homes and property in Florida, the old Nixon family house in Whittier, Calif., and proceeds from the sales of his New York apartment and shares in a Florida land company.

Nixon is paying $100,000 down on the California property and the rest over five years at 7.5 per cent interest.

The California house at San Clemente is 50 miles south of Los Angeles and was bought from Mrs. Henry Hamilton Cotton, the 90-year-old widow of a wealthy oil and real estate dealer.

An aide said the President has in mind some repairs and a new paint job for the 55-year-old, 10-room white stucco home with a red tile roof. A tennis court, described as "having seen better days," may be restored, and the President is thinking about building a swimming pool.

There is a stretch of beach for walks in the California sun. Several wealthy neighbors are seeking to have the Sante Fe Railroad tracks by the beach removed, but Nixon is said to think the train traffic will be "charming."

Nixon bought five acres of a $1.4 million, 20-acre estate. A spokesman said the balance of the land will be held in trust until a "compatible buyer" is found.

Nixon sold his 10-room cooperative apartment in New York City for $326,000. He bought it for $166,860 and had put some $95,000 into improvements.

The President's salary is $200,000 a year and he has a $50,000 tax-free expense account.

Nixon's total assets were reported at $980,400, his liabilities including notes, loans and mortgage contracts, at $383,500, for a net worth figure of $596,900.

Personalities In The News

ROME (AP) — A magistrate has dismissed a charge by Police Commissioner Vincenzo Fontana of Genoa that Gina Lollobrigida broke the law by describing policemen as "cretins" in the film "Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell."

The magistrate said the remark was made during a comedy sequence in which the make believe police did commit some stupid maneuvers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Sorensen, a speechwriter for the late President John F. Kennedy, said the decision to deploy the Safeguard antimissile system may develop into President Nixon's "Bay of Pigs."

"John F. Kennedy's hundred days of glory were ruined when he yielded to those cold warriors urging the Bay of Pigs invasion," Sorensen said in an article in the Saturday Review.

"The ABM-defense budget decision, urged upon President Nixon by much the same kind of military minds, may prove over a much longer run to have been his Bay of Pigs."

NEW YORK (AP) — A court has issued a summons for James Meredith, a Negro whose enrollment at the University of Mississippi led to rioting in 1962, on a charge of harassing tenants in his Bronx apartment building.

A tenant complained Monday that Meredith, demanding higher rents in the 35-family building, cut off the hot water and elevator service.

No date was set for a hearing on the summons.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Astronaut Alan B. Shepard's ear surgery probably means that he will be less vulnerable to dizziness in space than astronauts who never had a problem with their balance mechanism, says his doctor.

"I would have no qualms medically about his going to the moon," Dr. Charles A. Berry told newsmen before addressing the Los Angeles County Heart Association Monday.

Shepard was grounded in 1963 after one space mission. The ear surgery was to correct a condition called Menniere's disease, which involves the balance mechanism in the inner ear. It can cause hearing loss and dizziness.

Last year a Los Angeles surgeon, Dr. William F. House, operated to correct Shepard's condition. In a separate interview, he agreed with Berry's statement that Shepard may now be less vulnerable to dizziness while weightless than other astronauts.

Women were not allowed to be present at the first Olympic Games in ancient Greece, and if any were found to be present they were to be "thrown headlong from a rock," according to the first edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in 1768.

Passing Grades Given 9 In Exam For School Jobs

All nine applicants received passing grades in an exam held Monday night at City Hall by the Municipal Civil Service Commission to draw up an eligibility list for appointment of school custodians.

Listed in the order in which they scored, they were:

Thomas R. Baughman of 829 Louise St., James R. McDevitt of 1067 St. George St., Bert H. Goodwin of the Marshall Apartments, James J. Creaturo of 1701 Etruria St., John C. Buzzard of 167 Pennsylvania Ave.

Baxter L. Talbert of Bluff St., Dixonville, Gene E. Smith of Calcutta, Robert E. Greathouse of 631 Jefferson St. and Stanley L. Davis of 804 St. Clair Ave.

Meanwhile, the commission set examinations for applicants for police and fire department posts.

MOTORIZED FIRE EXTINGUISHER may prove ideal for highway fire protection because of its great speed and maneuverability. Unveiled recently at Marinette, Wis., the Magnum X-2 was described as the "world's fastest fire truck." The experimental vehicle reportedly accelerates from 0 to 60 miles an hour in 11 seconds and attains speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour. Tanks containing its extinguishing agents are incorporated as parts of the frame.

Those Seeking To Abolish Draft

Laird Hits At Students Who Oppose ROTC Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon leaders say students clamoring for abolition of the draft are working against themselves in trying to destroy the college-based ROTC program at the same time.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says campus demonstrators ought to recognize ROTC is one of the big building blocks in the Nixon administration program to end the draft and establish a basically volunteer military force.

"Some of the very people that are trying to keep us off the college campuses are the same people that are the most vehement in their criticism of the present draft," Laird tells reporters. "Now, you can't have it both ways, gentlemen.

"We have to be able to carry on recruiting and try to attract the most competent young people that we possibly can to military service. You can't do it, and you can't move toward volunteer forces if you are prohibited from going on college campuses."

The Pentagon is struggling to modify ROTC to make it acceptable to schools where faculty members as well as students have criticized the program.

Defense officials are prepared to give way on some details such as course composition, instructors and work loads. But they do not intend to alter the program's basic feature: military training concurrent with civilian academic life.

Laird's new manpower chief, Roger T. Kelley, says each university with problems over ROTC must decide whether the program is compatible with its educational philosophy.

"The essence of ROTC is to provide a here-and-now blend of the civilian and academic with military training," Kelley says. "If the school says 'that isn't for us,' then that is a decision the school must make, and they should have an orderly retreat."

Last year ROTC produced 21,426 officers, a record for one year. The program has turned out well over a quarter of a million officers since its inception in the 19th century.

One-third of the Army's generals rose through the ranks from ROTC beginnings.

In the Navy, one-half of the officers from the level just below flag to lieutenant are ROTC products. Half the current production of officers in the Army and Air Force in ROTC.

The Pentagon contends that despite well-publicized activities of student demonstrators in recent weeks there is no broad-based, nationwide opposition to ROTC. Officers insist the ROTC changes that are taking place merely reflect continuing efforts to modernize the curriculum and tailor ROTC needs of the 353 schools offering the course.

Somt administrators have told the Pentagon that ROTC work load on a student is becoming too much considering his regular academic burden. A four-year ROTC scholarship commits a young man to some 350 hours of military work.

Where possible the Pentagon has agreed to shift some of that work load from the regular school term to the summer months. Marching drills also may be reduced, but the Pentagon says it won't allow ROTC to be shunted aside like a forbidden or unwanted organization.

"If the reason for eliminating or reducing drill hours is simply to remove the visibility of the military organization, then we think that is a poor and invalid reason for considering a reduction in drill, Kelley says.

Kelley notes there is a waiting list of 335 schools that want ROTC units.

By dropping ROTC, Kelley says, a university denies students enrolled in the program their free choice of how to prepare for a military career. He calls this "a rather serious privation."

$340,000 In Native California

President Completes Deal On Summer White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has closed the deal for a $340,000 summer White House in his native California on a bluff commanding a view of the Pacific Ocean.

In making the announcement Monday, White House aides also listed the President's net worth at $596,900. This includes his interests in his homes and property in Florida, the old Nixon family house in Whittier, Calif., and proceeds from the sales of his New York apartment and shares in a Florida land company.

Nixon is paying $100,000 down on the California property and the rest over five years at 7.5 per cent interest.

The California house at San Clemente is 50 miles south of Los Angeles and was bought from Mrs. Henry Hamilton Cotton, the 90-year-old widow of a wealthy oil and real estate dealer.

An aide said the President has in mind some repairs and a new paint job for the 55-year-old, 10-room white stucco home with a red tile roof. A tennis court, described as "having seen better days," may be restored, and the President is thinking about building a swimming pool.

There is a stretch of beach for walks in the California sun. Several wealthy neighbors are seeking to have the Sante Fe Railroad tracks by the beach removed, but Nixon is said to think the train traffic will be "charming."

Nixon bought five acres of a $1.4 million, 20-acre estate. A spokesman said the balance of the land will be held in trust until a "compatible buyer" is found.

Nixon sold his 10-room cooperative apartment in New York City for $326,000. He bought it for $166,860 and had put some $95,000 into improvements.

The President's salary is $200,000 a year and he has a $50,000 tax-free expense account.

Nixon's total assets were reported at $980,400, his liabilities including notes, loans and mortgage contracts, at $383,500, for a net worth figure of $596,900.

Personalities In The News

ROME (AP) — A magistrate has dismissed a charge by Police Commissioner Vincenzo Fontana of Genoa that Gina Lollobrigida broke the law by describing policemen as "cretins" in the film "Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell."

The magistrate said the remark was made during a comedy sequence in which the make believe police did commit some stupid maneuvers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Sorensen, a speechwriter for the late President John F. Kennedy, said the decision to deploy the Safeguard antimissile system may develop into President Nixon's "Bay of Pigs."

"John F. Kennedy's hundred days of glory were ruined when he yielded to those cold warriors urging the Bay of Pigs invasion," Sorensen said in an article in the Saturday Review.

"The ABM-defense budget decision, urged upon President Nixon by much the same kind of military minds, may prove over a much longer run to have been his Bay of Pigs."

NEW YORK (AP) — A court has issued a summons for James Meredith, a Negro whose enrollment at the University of Mississippi led to rioting in 1962, on a charge of harassing tenants in his Bronx apartment building.

A tenant complained Monday that Meredith, demanding higher rents in the 35-family building, cut off the hot water and elevator service.

No date was set for a hearing on the summons.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Astronaut Alan B. Shepard's ear surgery probably means that he will be less vulnerable to dizziness in space than astronauts who never had a problem with their balance mechanism, says his doctor.

"I would have no qualms medically about his going to the moon," Dr. Charles A. Berry told newsmen before addressing the Los Angeles County Heart Association Monday.

Shepard was grounded in 1963 after one space mission. The ear surgery was to correct a condition called Menniere's disease, which involves the balance mechanism in the inner ear. It can cause hearing loss and dizziness.

Last year a Los Angeles surgeon, Dr. William F. House, operated to correct Shepard's condition. In a separate interview, he agreed with Berry's statement that Shepard may now be less vulnerable to dizziness while weightless than other astronauts.

Women were not allowed to be present at the first Olympic Games in ancient Greece, and if any were found to be present they were to be "thrown headlong from a rock," according to the first edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in 1768.

Dr. Millard Rosenblatt last year won the Tualatin, Ore., Country Club golf championship for the 12th time. He is 77.

In England, the Big Dipper is known as "The Plow." The handle of the dipper is the handle of the plow and the bowl is the plowshare.

A Junior Editors Quiz About LIZARDS

QUESTION: There are many lizards here in Louisiana. Are there any poisonous ones?

* * *

ANSWER: To those interested in natural history, Louisiana is a fascinating state. There are rare and beautiful birds, and many attractive and lively little lizards, whisking in and out of crevices, climbing trees or walls. We show some of the most common of the lizards. Number (2) is one of the large group called swifts. You can recognize them by their rough scales. The American chameleon or anole (3) is the attractive lizard so often seen in captivity. It can change its color completely, sometimes being all green, sometimes brown. Skinks (4) form a large and important group, with glossy shining scales. They are difficult to catch and spend a good deal of time in hiding. We show the five-lined skink, the young of which has a brilliant blue tail. Whiptail lizards (5) have very long tails. The strange little glass snake (6), whose tail breaks off easily, looks much more like a snake than a lizard. All these are quite harmless. Actually, the Gila monster (1), the only poisonous lizard, lives far to the west of Louisiana.

(Chris Johnson, of Lake Charles, La., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)
